the state Democratic reform organization was held at the Alhambra rink yesterday. Temporary Chairman Daniel E. Griffin cailed the convention to order and stated that, while they were awaiting the reports of the committees, Dr. William Everett of Quincy, Mass., would address the delegates. When introduced, he said Massachusetts stood shoulder to shoulder with New York for honest money, honest politics and a united Union. Mr. Everett's reference to Grover Cleveland aroused the greatest en-thusiasm, and the delegates waved their hats and cheered vociferously. Chairman Sutro of the committee on permanent organization submitted his report, which was adopted.

At the close of Everett's address, the ommittee on permanent organization reported that Charles S. Fairchild had been selected permanent chairman, and Roswell P. Flower, E. M. Sheppard, Charles Tracy and George A. Magee as delegates-at-large to the Indianapolis convention. The alternates were Francis M. Scott, ex-Mayor Bishop of Buffalo, George A. Brockway of Cortland and Charles J. Bissell of Rochester. The secretaries of the temporary organization were continued. General Charles Tracey and Theodore form. Mr. Fairchild was warmly received by the delegates. Mr. Fairchild's denouncement of the intention of the Brvan of making inflammatory appeals in effort to secure votes, by creating class hatred; commends President Cleveland and says Democrats should be nominated at Indianapolis. On currency and proection, it says:

We repudicte the Chicago platform because it proposes to substitute for our present standard of value, which is equal to the best in the world, an unstable and depreciated standard, which has been rejected by every civilized and prosper-ous nation, and which would put us on a monetary level with China, Mexico and other countries where labor is notoriously underpaid.

The Chicago platform declares against 2 sheets 5c., box (25 sheets) 35c. gold monometallism, and advocates legislation which must inevitably lead to silver monometallism; it advocates a monetary system which would offer an unlimited field of speculation to the capitalist, but would materially reduce | Ehrich of Colorado, Comptroller Eckels the purchasing power of every dollar of Illinois, Senator Vilas of Wisconsin, paid to the wage-earner, and punish ex-Congressman Outhwaite of Ohio and honest thrift by depreciation of value in every savings bank deposit and every life insurance policy. Reeping inviolate the national credit. Thus far but one delegate has appeared and favors a policy which must result in partial repudiation of the public debt; it disapproves of the issue of national bank notes secured by the pledge of gov-ernment bonds and suggests no substitute therefor, except paper money, re-deemable in debased and fluctuating coin. The silver agitation began in the efforts of the producers of silver to obtain a higher price for their products, and they have as much right to seek the interference of the government in their behalf (however fauitless it may be) as have the manufacturers of steel or cottons. The Bland-Allison act of 1878 and the so-called Sherman act of 1879 were the so-called Sherman act of 1890 were measures largely designed to afford pro-tection to the producers of silver; and the latter act, under which from 1890 to 893 the government of the United States ourchased monthly 4,500,000 ounces of iver, nearly six tons daily, and issued treasury notes therefor, so threatened the national credit and produced such distrust of the power of the government to maintain the standard of value that to it far more than to any other influence is due the business depression of the last three years, and the consequent free silver agitation which finds in that depression its only hope of success.

We believe the enforcement of the civil service laws is essential to an effi-cient administration of the public busi-ness, and we commend the extension of denouncement of the intention of the Euffalo Democratic convention to endorse the Chicago nominees in order to preserve the regularity of their organization was enthusiastically received. Indianapolis, Sept. 1 .- Although the ocrats occurs tomorrow, the delegates notables, including Perry Belmont and ex-Congressman Outhwaite of Ohio and Congressman Sperry, got here yesterday, but the real influx will not begin until this evening. Secretary John R. Wilson already has the signed credentials of over 600 delegates and telegrams who does not favor the nomination of a ticket.

The managers, however, look upon a ticket in the doubtful states as of vital importance, but the general expectaion now is that an electoral ticket will be put up in almost every state in the Union. It is pointed out that an active canvass is to be made by the gold Demthe public service depends.

"They would," said Congressman Sperry,"give us a chance to rally round them. Despite the fact that in this campaign the money question overshadows all else, it would be almost impossible for Democrats to advocate the election of McKinley on a platform which gave preference to protection and other things to which we have been and are still unalterably opposed. The only detraction to McKinley's election seems to be the fact that many gold Democrats will vote for Mc-Kinley and the real strength of the gold Democrats will not be manifest in the vote cast."

The managers have begun to cast around for vote-getters. The most prominent name suggested yesterday Broadhead of Missouri and Mr. Bynum are also talked about to some extent.

CREEN MOUNTAINEERS Are Casting Their Ballots Today After an Earnestly Fought Contest.

We heartily commend the administration of Grover Cleveland. He has been loyal to the principles of true Democracy. His administration has been efficient, honest and economical. He deserves the thanks of the whole people and has earned and will receive the praise of a grateful posterity.

We hold that it is the duty of the government of the United States in the exercise of its constitutional functions, in respect to coinage and currency, to follow and not force the preferences of the people. The gold standard is a monetary fact, which cannot be changed by act of congress. In the face of the long continued existence of that standard in the United States, and the unmistakable world-wide selection of gold in preference to silver as a monetary standard, any attempt to tamper with that standard in vicious in principle, dishonest in practice, destructive of confidence and thoroughly un-Democratic. We, therefore, are in favor of firm and unvarying maintenance of the present gold standard continues to be a monetary fact.

We belie e that the federal government should be entirely divorced from the business of banking, and therefore demand the repeal of all laws authorizing the issue of legal tender, or treasury notes, by the government, or the people. THE WAYS of this world seem to be a mystery-hard to find out. When we see a gentleman like Mr. James Edwards, who apparently was surrounded with all that goes to make this life a pleasant and enjoyable one, removed from us so sudthe respective Ward Committees and the denly, it seems to be a great mystery. He had strong wiry constitution; was free from sickness, scarcely ever needing the servic of a physician; and always ready to attack any new obstacle that came in his way He could not be idle; it was not natura for one of his temperament, Like al active men he found himself at times, no doubt, in hard places; but with his energy and courage he always seemed to surmount them, and was ready for the next.

Time Brings Changes.

Dr. William Everett's open hostility to Hon. George Fred Williams brings to mind the changed demeanor which less than a twelve month has brought about. A member of the local Democratic organization was delegated last fall to meet Mr. Williams at the depot, and while awaiting the arrival of the train met the disciple of Browning, who readily entered into conversation. Dr. Everett was going to speak that evening and was pleased to have as a colleague, Mr. Williams. He stated to a city committee man that he had purposely gone to Cambridge a few evenings previous to hear Mr. Williams speak and was gratified that he had held his audience so well. The doctor stated that being a Cambridge audience, it was much above the average, capable of separating the wheat from the chaff, and disinclined to accept anything but absolute and irrefutable facts. That Mr. Williams could hold such an audience, and in the doctor's amusing conceit, please them also, was a sufficient guarantee that the Massachusetts Democrats had made no mistake in their gubernatorial candidate.

But lo! how times have changed the estimation of the Eim street sage, who uses his spare time to hunt through the works of Boston's idol and quote:

"Just for a handful of silver he left us, Just for a ribbon to stick in his coat."

He is now Cured, and He Thanks God and P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, For It. Mr. George Briggs, of Moore, Okla., suffered almost indescribable torment for three long years. Neuralgia held him captive. The right side of his face was so badly affected that the slightest touch would cause the unfortunate man intense agony. For several weeks he could open his mouth just wide enough to be fed with liquid nourishment, and in this manner life was sustained. Read the following extract from his letter: "Truth is stranger than Fiction."

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMA-

TISM COMPLETELY CURED. George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down 9r the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose. Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of neuralgia, catarrh and rheumatism, no matter how chronic or how old the cases ar , that P. P. P. will not make a total cure of. Mr. Briggs winds up his testimony by saying he thanks God and our med-icine, P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, for the great cure. Kidney troubles, if neglected, bring about serious and painful and very often fatal results. P. P. removes the irregularities, and cures the diseased parts. Dyspepsia and indigestion, skin and blood diseases, can be speedily removed by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Ladies, take P. P. P. and rid your face of pimples, blotches, freckles, yellow or muddy skin, wrinkles and vulgar redness.

gubernatorial contests in presidential years was 23,102,and the smallest majority was that of Levi K. Fuller over B. B. Smalley, in 1892; while the largest majority was in 1888, when William P. Dillingham was elected over Stephen C. Shurtleff by 27,618 majority. The Democratic tidal wave, in 1892, broke the constantly increasing majority received by the Republicans during the past 40 years. H. H. Powers, the Republican congressional candidate in the First district, and

William W. Grout in the Second are both re-elected by increased majorities, and the state senate and house are in the control of the Republicans by practically the same majority as two years ago. The weather generally was cool and fair throughout the state, and brought out hundreds of Republican voters who have not been to the polls for years. Practically the full Republican vote was cast. On the other hand, the lack of organization in the Democrats' ranks was very apparent. Many Democrats who do not endorse the platform of the Chicago convention remained away from the polls, while the more dissatisfied ones voted for the Republican ticket. The antagonism to Grout, resulting from the convention which nominated him, which, it was claimed, would develop in the vote, was not in evidence to any great extent. It was claimed that there would be accessions to the Democratic ranks in the farming districts, but these changes and Prohibition vote was practically the same as four years ago. As between the two greater parties it was in brief a contest of a well organized army against forces lacking organization and hope. The Republican managers claim that the result is significant, and shows opposition from all sides to the Democratic currency principle, but the Democrats maintain that the increased Republican ford. majority was expected, and it would Manson Seavy, instructor in mathehave been very surprising if it had failed matics, English high school, Boston, is to develop. Bay State Men Endorse Carlisle Currency Plank Demanding a Radical Modification of the Present Banking Laws.

Indianapolis, Sept. 2.-In personnel the delegates attending the national Democratic convention today take rank with any who have ever had seats in a national convention. Conspicuous in the convention are ex-governors, senators, congressman and others whom the Democracy has honored highly in the past. Not a few of them sat in the Chicago convention, which nominated Bryan and Sewall.

Senator John M. Palmer of Illinois, chairman of the provisional committee, appointed at Chicago five weeks ago, called the convention to order at noon today in Tomlinson hall. The gathering exceeds expectations, both in point of numbers and states represented. From the lists in the hands of Secretary Wilson, it is certain that over 800 To go and catch Fish 41 or 42 states and territories. Considering the fact that the original call for the meeting of representatives of 10 middle states was only issued July 20, the managers feel that they have reason to feel proud of the result of their work. The national committee held an informal meeting yesterday, which was not attended by many members, and it was adjourned until today. There is nothing of importance for the commit- A little shopworn, 30 cts. pair; worth $1.00. tee to do but approve the action of the executive committee in making the arrangements for the convention and the election of temporary officers.

There has been a distinct increase in the Bragg sentiment. The Wisconsin delegation held a meeting over which General Bragg presided and unanimous ly passed a motion instructing Burr W. lones of that state to present General Bragg's name when the roll of states was called for the nomination of candidates. General Bragg himself is very complacent over the matter, and sits in his room receiving all visitors who may come, and talking not of himself, or his candidacy, but about the gold Demo cratic movement and this convention General Bragg said it was of course an honor to be mentioned for president, and great movement such as the gold Demo crats were now pressing forward. The Wisconsin delegation was instructed by the convention to present General Bragg's name, but previous to meeting yesterday there was not so much in the Eragg candidacy. Several delegations have arrived whose members say that they would be satisfied with the Wisconsin candidate and have come to Indianapolis to confer with other delegations and determine who is the best man for the nomination. Some of these delegates have preferred Senator Vilas, but it is almost certain that the senator will not be considered and especially as long as there is any possibility of nominating Ceneral Bragg. The Wisconsin delegation have received assurances from some of the eastern states that General Bragg will have many delegates from that section. An attempt was made to start a Cleveland boom yesterday. It fell flat. The nearest friends of the president deprecate it most seriously, and say that the president would himself cut it off summarily if consulted. He is reported as being as desirous as one could be to prevent this convention from taking on the appearance of a personal following. While it will undoubtedly in its platform commend the wise and patriotic acts of the administration, and while its leaders are warm in their praise of the conduct of the president, in the desperate emergencies with which he has been years confronted, there is a universal agreement to have no element of mere heroworship in its attitude. Whether the Cleveland talk was started by the opponents of Watterson's nomination for the Money Wanted purpose of creating a diversion, or whether it was started by the Watterson men as a means of killing off some of the rival candidates, it is hard to determine. The one thing that is certain is that the president himself has had no part in the

A leading Cleveland boomer is Hugh C. Wallace of Washington, who created Durgin & Merrill's Block, - Quincy such a sensation by standing out for sound money as a delegate to the Chicago convention and resigning from the national committee after his own delegation, with full knowledge of his position, had elected him to it. He considers that Cleveland is the strongest individual Democrat in the country today, and scouts the idea that any number of people could be stampeded by the thirdterm bugaboo. Ex-Governor Jones of Alabama is cited as another Cleveland man, but it does not appear that he can fairly be counted as among the strong advocates of the president's renomination. He says frankly that the president is loved and admired by the sound money Democrats of his state, but that his delegation has not and will not commit itself to his candidacy, but stands from $1.50, $2.50 to $5.00. man who seems to command the widest Twenty-Five Cents. and most enthusiastic support from the convention generally. He says the vote for the Indianapolis ticket will astound the Bryan men on the day of election.

It was decided that in case there was a probability of more than one ballot, that a complimentary than one ballot, that a complimentary vote should be cast for Secretary Olney.

Henry E. Lamb, a member of the committee on resolutions, was instructed to ask for the incorporation of a plank in the platform endorsing international arbitration. A currency plank was adopted and Mr. Lamb authorized to present it to the committee. This plank is one which has received the endorsement of the treasury department, and contains suggestions by Secretary Carlisle and is largely on the line which he has advocated before the finance committees in congress. It is as follows:

We recognize the fact that the existing urrency system of the United States, created in a period of national stress, is ment paper money and national bank notes based upon bonded security has been to restrict circulation where it was needed, to accumulate idle capital in a few centers, to restrict enterprise and cripple industry, to make currency scarce in times of business activity and redundantly plentiful in times and places where it was not needed, and at such times to expel the surplus in the form of gold, the money of international exchange. The gold standard has not been the cause, but the victim of these conditions. The banks also have been the victims of laws not of their making— the result of war necessities—and have incurred unmerited hostility because they have been prevented by these laws from rendering the services to agricul-tural industry and commerce which should be their legitimate and natural function under a proper currency ystem. We believe that the protection of the public credit against the results of agita-tion for the debasement of the metallic tion for the debasement of the metallic standard has been rendered doubly difficult by the defective character of our paper currency. The gold standard has borne the odium of events for which it is not responsible, and which should be directed against the vicious policy of government paper currency, subject to pernetual reissue. The sale of bonds for perpetual reissue. The sale of bonds for gold on four occasions during the past three years has been due to the fact that the existing currency system has thrown upon the treasury an obligation which should be imposed by law upon the banks. This system of legal tender paper has brought discredit and suffer-ing to every people who have resorted to it, and has been discarded by every civil-ized state which sought to place its currency upon a sound and scientific basis.

We demand, therefore, that the initial steps be taken for the withdrawal from curculation of the legal tender notes, of or a change of the existing system of redemption and reissue, and we demand in order that there may be no improper contraction of the currency and that it may be capable of ready adjustment to the demands of business, that the present banking laws be so modified as to in terpose no obstacle to the creation of a elastic banking currency, subject to such control as shall insure uniformity ecurity and redemption in standard

The Irish Convention. Dublin, Sept. 2.-The convention o

epresentatives of the Irish race, which was summoned with a view of affording the opportunity to all who desire to se unity restored among the Irish Nationalists to come together and formulate platform, in support of which Irish Nationalists throughout the world may ac ogether, was opened in Leinster hall at noon yesterday, and will be in session three days. When the convention was called to order there were 2000 delegate present. To all intents and purposes the onvention is considered to be over, and the common opinion is that it has been a complete failure, it being insinuated that the delegates from foreign counily's supplies for the tries are all Dillonites and not entitled to speak in behalf of Irishmen abroad Some persons seek to justify the positio of Redmond and Healy in ignoring what it calls a "packed convention."

It is rethe Hassim Pasha quarter sought rebodies thrown in the street. It is reported that the Jews assisted the Turks in pointing out the homes of Armenians and it is believed that 300 of the Mussulmans arrested are members of the Young Turks' party, and not partakers in the massacres, as the porte asserts.

Doings of Conventions In New Hampshire and Connecticut --- Vermont Figures.

Indianapolis, Sept. 3 .-- Forty-one states and three territories, represented by 624 delegates, met in Tomlinson hall as the climax of a six weeks' campaign, to repudiate the action of the Chicago convention and put forth a declaration of priniples and name a presidential ticket rder, termed it the first convention of the national Democratic party, while others referred to it as " the Democracy strictly to the ticket holdows. The delegates themselves were an imposing body of men. Among them were were delegates to the Chicago convention, several chairmen of delegations, who returned here in the same capacity, except that whereas, they were hissed erefor, declining to participate in the roceedings, their appearance here was the signal for outbursts of enthusiasm There was plenty of excitement, and demonstrations were numerous. The delegates cheered at the sight of prominent men-in fact everything and anything. The "what's-the-matter" man was there, and kept them busy. The convention held two sessions, but got no further than effecting the permanent organization. Ex-Governor Flower, the temporary chairman, and Senator Caffery, the permanent chairman, both delivered addresses, and Dr. Everett of Massachusetts and John P. Irish, the Pacific coast orator, voiced the spirit of the convention during interims in the proceedings. There was not a jar or a hitch anywhere. The temper of the delegates was displayed in the vigorous fashion with which the denunciation of the Chicago platform and its candidates were received. Governor Flower referred to Bryan as an "ambi tious, unsteady and unsafe" man, and a 'demagogue and word juggler" with a 'revolutionary horse behind him," and the rafters rang with the applause. Mr Hattie Mylius, of 70 East 86th treet, New York, says that she was in poor health, and that her case developed into nervous prostration. She suffered from nervous headaches, and at times was unable to do any work at all. She could not sleep, and was so nervous that she would have to get up at all hours of the night and walk the floor, and the opening of a door would startle her. But her weakness and nervousness is all gone. P. P. P. was what saved her. Her appetite improved, her nervousness is a thing of the past, and she thanks P. P. AN ARREST MADE.

The Norfolk Downs Tool Thief in Court Today.

As stated in Thursday's LEDGER, a tool thief has been operating about Quincy for some few weeks past. Although there have been quite a number of breaks where tools of various kinds were taken, but few of them have been made public for the reason that the police desired to keep the matter quiet until they were enabled to get their hands upon the fellow, as they were convinced that all of the breaks were made by the same party and that it was only a question of time when he would fall into their hands.

When Mr. Randall reported the loss of his carpenter's tools to the police early Thursday morning, the Police Headquarters in Boston were notified, and Inspector McKay also went to Boston to keep an eye on some of the pawnshops.

It was about 9.30 Thursday morning when Inspectors Cleary and Wolf of the Boston headquarters, who had been notified to look out for the fellow, observed a man who answered the description coming night. across Broadway bridge, South Boston, and all unconsciously he walked right into their

When arrested he had something like $40 worth of tools in his possession some of which proved to be those stolen from Mr. Randall.

The fellow gave his name as John Burke, and the Boston police give him a bad record, and say that he has passed the greater part of his time for the past 20 MRS. WILLIAM FIELD, one of our years in prison. His residence he gives as New York but the police think his residence to be Brockton.

The Quincy police were notified of the arrest, and Officers Ferguson and Canavan were sent in to bring him to Quincy. The fellow acknowledged that he had made the breaks and said his method was have gone to Colorado on a trip combining to come out in the electrics in the evening and to return about 5 o'clock in the morning so that if anyone saw him with tools they would think him a carpenter going to work. He was arraigned in court this morning.

Delegates.

All nominations of candidates for Republican delegates in Ward One, Two, Three and Four should be filed in the next eight days, the time limit being Friday, Sept. 11, at 7 P. M.

A contest over the State delegates is probable as each of the candidates for the nomination as lieutenant governor have friends in this city.

The most interest perhaps centers in the Congressional delegates because of Atwood and anti-Atwood sentiment. The committees generally are favorable to Atwood and he may secure a majority of the Quincy delegates.

Unless there is a more decided opposition The following cases are marked for trial to the Norfolk county commissioners, the workers for Watts H. Bowker, of Brookline, may steal a march after all that has been shown up. His friends are doubtless well organized.

County delegates will also nominate a candidate for clerk of courts, and the present incumbent, Erastus Worthington may meet with some opposition.

and Bowker of the County Commissioners. Weymouth Republicans are reported to be dissatisfied with the arrangement to allow Braintree seven of the twenty representatives in ten years. But Braintree has about one third of the legal voters in the district and why should it not have onethird of the representatives. It will be fortunate if it gets seven, although they have been apportioned, as Quincy has found that Weymouth voters vote for Weymouth candidates irrespective of party. Braintree, although smaller, is actually growing faster than Weymouth, gaining

A REDEEMING ACT.

Dave was a coward, and he had always borne the reputation of arrant cowardice ever since he had crawled over the side of his dugout cradle to wallow along with the underfoot world on the white sand before his parents' cabin door. Though country born and bred, a passing thunderstorm struck him with terror, and the sight of the black waters of the "crick" caused a remarkable agitation of his knees. He was a coward pure and simple. The bristling of a coon routed him unconditionally, and a determined possum could rob the henroost before his very face. Indeed, Dave was a coward, and his cousin, Sue Spivey, laughed uproariously when the poor fellow perpetrated his initial and only act of boasting. He had said to her one day very solemnly and no doubt sincerely:

"Toe purtec yo' honah an happiness I 'ud th'ow away my wuthless life." Ordinarily Dave's speech was unpolished and provincial, but on this occasion it rose to the dignity of what he felt the occasion demanded.

Sue knew full well his timorous disposition and would have thought it safe to count on his poltroonery in any event. But a day was sadly near which proved to her the full worth of the poor fellow's grandiloquent assertion.

Long before the late unpleasantness and until this day Honeypath was only a siding, where occasional trains took water and passed each other. Two or three log shanties, without special pretensions to any architectural dissimilarity, marked the site of the town, distinguishing it from the vast area of impenetrable swamp that backed it and the arid waste of sandy bottom through which the glistening, polished rails of the grand trunk line writhed and sinuated. Along that glowing metal highway troops of both armies passed and repassed, gazed at curiously by the few old women and senile males left in the village, but exciting no other emotion than a blank curiosity that died out even before the white mist of the fine sand stirred by the soldiers' feet had settled behind the retreating bands.

Dave was a native of Honeypath and lived with an aged father in one of the shanties. Sue dwelt with her mother in another near by. Dave's father was a hot blooded southerner, whose patriotism answered to the first call to arms. but Dave was timid, fearful of the smell of powder and refrained from action, preferring to suffer the opprobrious epithets which were liberally bestowed upon him and the contempt of the county generally to facing he knew not what life long borne meekly the scorn and horror upon the battlefield. He was not opprobrium attached to the character, a philosopher and could not plead in extenuation of his neutrality that the arouse to a sense of his degradation, martial slaughter of his brother man calmly arose to the very pinnacle of herwas a crime and that the wholesale sacrifice of human life was immoral.

Dave was simply a coward and accepted meekly the obloquy which the condition imposed, not even the taunts and cutting sarcasm of pretty Sue Spivey being able to rouse the instincts of battle in his craven soul.

was gathered to her final rest, being put out of sight in the little sandy graveyard, with only the comment of the two remaining neighbors. And then Dave and Sue toiled early and late in order to wring from the starving acres an unvaried livelihood of vams, corn bread and bacon, more often the corn bread without the embellishment of potatoes and bacon, particularly during the weeks after a hungry foraging party had passed that way.

One day Dave was working among the young potato vines in an open arid field behind the cabin, when Sue ran out to him in troubled haste.

"Oh, Dave, I'm pow'ful skeered!"

she panted. "Skeered o' what?" he asked, without intermission of the bent labor. "Some—some soldiers just went down the road, an they spoke to me-sassy like." She hesitated, and Dave looked up to see her pretty face scarlet and her brows bent together in angry lines. "Well, what did they all say?" he demanded in his accustomed slow drawl after waiting in vain for her to proceed. "They 'lowed they all was a-comin "Who was they ennyhow?" he asked uneasily, his face blanching in anticipation of the martial visit. "They was Mosby's men, I 'lowed, an they was five of 'em.'

"Our fellers?" a little surprised and straightening his back. "Come on back to the house, Sue," and, shouldering his hoe, he trudged stolidly on before. "Don't you be skeered," he continued as they reached the yard. "I reckon they won't do nothin.

Of the two it would have been manifest to the most casual observer that he was the worst "skeered," but he walked on till they reached the house, and still figure of Dave, wrapping him in Sue cried out:

"Yonder they come now—all five." Dave's face blanched to a sallow whiteness, but he pulled her quickly inside the door. "What you gwine to do?" Sue asked nervously, keeping near her cousin, but down his life for his friend."-Detroit he apparently did not hear. He had Journal.

taken down a rifle that had belonged to Sue's brother, who had also offered up his life on the altar of the cause, leaving his weapon to his sister as a means of defense in just such emergencies as

"What you gwine to do, Dave?" the girl persisted, coming closer and laying her hand on his arm. Dave shook several cartridges into the cylinder of the winchester and waited in silence, apparently not aware that Sue had touched him. Only a few more moments to wait and then the last act in the commonplace little tragedy. A loud pounding at the rickety cabin door and a derisive, imperative voice demanded:

"Hi, in there, open up, or we'll make splinters of yer ole door." The threat was garnished by several strong expletives and accompanied with more vicious pounding.

Then for answer went the spiteful snap of the winchester, followed by a surprised howl of pain, more voluble profanity and footsteps in rapid retreat.

Dave went to the window, and though a knothole in the shutter reviewed the situation of the enemy. Then though the aperture the rifle again spoke with decisive, leaden emphasis, and when the smoke cleared away the man inside beheld one of the besiegers lying prone across the freshly hoed potato rows, while another limped painfully in the rear of the retreating trio.

In the short silence that followed the last shot the arid topography of Honey. path seemed to flash before Dave's vision, each peculiarity standing out strong and clear. The fine, white sand, covered everywhere with fat leaved prickly pear and cactus that bloomed perpetually in big butter colored flowers; the bright, blazing sky, the heat that rose up and hung heavily over man and beast, the many insects that sat out in the furnacelike sun, rattling shrilly with very joy. Then the dense shade of the murky shadowed swamp and the big sealy back scorpions and dainty multicolored lizards that played an eternal game of hide and seek among the rotting rails of the old snake fence.

The trio had disappeared into the swamp, and Dave calmly refilled his rifle, waiting as though lost in thought. Presently from the rear of the cabin came the harsh command:

"You cowardly bushwhacker in there, come out an fight like a man! If ye don't, we'll burn ye an yer shanty an the gal with ye.

There was no opening in the rear of the cabin, the logs were thick and the chinks were well stopped with clay, so that Dave could not return a leaden answer to this brutal challenge. He fingered the rifle nervously and looked at

"Oh, Dave, don't open the door," she pleaded, meeting the earnest look bent on her face from beneath the brim of Dave's frouzy slouch hat, "I ain't afeered toe burn.

His lips blanched, his knees were wobbly with fear, but he had not forgotten the one boast of his poor, pinched life, uttered so long ago. "Toe purtec' yo' honah an happiness I 'ud throw away my wuthless life." He uttered the words again monotonously, fingerhis shaking hands.

Sue heard something heavy fall against the side of the cabin; then instantly the sharp, clear utterance of a winchester answered the carbines again and still again. One carbine only answered; then all was still; only the fretful warbling of a wren in the nearby Cherokee rose hedge breaking the tense silence of the drowsy afternoon hush.

Anxiety conquering terror, Sue drew back the bolt, throwing the door wide open. The first account of an order by this name shows that it appeared in England in 1745. Its object then, as now, was high and patriotic, "being to uphold the dignity of the sovereign of the realm, to assist one another in times of misfortune and to amuse and instruct one another." The order grew rapidly in England, but the lodges were independent and did not have one central authority to guide and control its destinies. Finally the Manchester Unity was formed, which

How the City Man Is Rescued From the Heat Demon.

How Treatment of Heat Prostration Has Advanced In Recent Years-The Farmer, Who Works In the Sun, Seldom Suffers From Sunstroke.

"Say, wear's the matter with him?" "Knocked out by the heat."

"Too bad! What is being done?" "Nothing now, but a policeman has gone to send in a hurry call."

Then the man on the outside edge of the crowd stepped into a shaded doorway and, prompted by a sort of morbid curiosity, waited for developments. It No. 9, Dr. Freshly, at 2:13 p. m. Diagwas during a hot spell. For more than nosis, pronounced insolation.'

a week the mercury had been climbing higher and higher every day. It had started in each morning at from 80 to 85 degrees, mounted to 92, 95 or 96 degrees by 2 or 3 o'clock in the afternoon only to commence again its anxiously watched journey the next day.

The first day or two were endurable because the atmosphere was comparatively dry, but gradually the air became saturated with moisture, and the perspiration which came to the surface found nothing to dry it up. All day long the sun poured down on the pavements and cobblestones until they became almost blistering to the touch. The great structures of brick and iron and stone which lined the city streets absorbed the heat as a sponge soaks up water. At night, after the sun had sunk to rest into a bank of red clouds which looked like a fiery furnace, they gave out this heat in quivering waves which could be felt if they could not be seen. The slow breezes which did manage to some linen cloths and speedily manufind their way about the town were like drafts from an open oven door.

And the people of the city-oh, they just sweltered and sweltered and sweltered. They got through the day as best they might and went to their homes to struggle through a night that was worse than the day had been. All who staid within the city suffered, so more than others, of course. But the rich man found the faint breeze which barely stirred the filmy lace curtains of his chamber just as disappointing as did the laborer who crawled out on the iron fire escape of his squalid tenement. Both waited in vain for a cool, invigorating breath which might help them to live through the broiling, burning day that they knew was coming.

Then they took pieces of ice and learn from the morning newspapers that rubbed him briskly as if they were using over nearly the entire country the same terrific heat was being experienced.

The Daily Zedger. STORY OF A SUNSTROKE whips up his horse, the doctor resumes his seat, lights a fresh eigarette and the swift drive to the hospital is soon over.

Two attendants grab the stretcher handles and carry the patient into the main ball, where the house surgeon meets them. He takes one look at the victim's red face, grips the limp wrist between his thumb and forefinger for a moment and then mutters briefly:

"Too late. Take him to the ice bath." The arm of the unconscious man drops with a thump on the stretcher bars and swings back and forth as the attendants trot through the long cool corridors with their burden to the elevator.

In this brief examination the house surgeon had decided that the patient was the victim of what is commonly known as sunstroke. But you don't suppose he gave it that name, do you? Not he. Here was the rscord he made on the entry book:

"No. 146. Received from ambulance

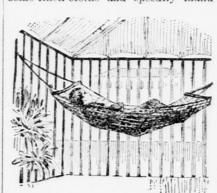

There were a few more details which were filled in later. But it was set down as a case of insolation. That is the medical term for sunstroke. The purplish color of the face and the unconsciousness of the patient indicated that it was a serious case, so the ice bath was ordered.

A few years ago the treatment which is now employed in some of the big city hospitals would have been denounced by doctors of all schools as barbaric and criminal cruelty. But we are in a progressive age and fewer people die from heat nowadays than formerly, although just as many, if not more, are stricken. It was 2:13 when the patient entered the hospital. At 2:19 he had been hoisted to the second floor of the building. stripped of his clothing and deposited in a soft meshed hammock suspended from a traveling crane. Two seconds later he had been swung directly over a big porcelain bathtub half filled with ice and water. Down into that chilly bath he went with a splash in the twinkling of an eye.

But in this case it was all right. The heart began to pump the blood through the arteries and veins in a somewhat more regular fashion and the physician said that the temperature was slowly falling from the dangerous point which it had reached. Finally the surgeon ordered the patient to be taken out. The crane carried him into an adjoining operating room, where the man was deposited in a stretcher. Here was a big tub of cracked ice. A white capped nurse came in with

It is not always the direct rays of the sun that strike down victims. Men fall by scores in places where the sun never shines. In sugar refineries, breweries, smelters and other places of industry where great heat is generated the victims are numerous during a hot wave.

It is generally the city man who is stricken. The farmer works all day in the fields and escapes. But he drinks little or no alcoholic liquors, he eats plenty of vegetables and little meat, he wears a wide brimmed straw hat, and the breeze which lulls him to sleep at night is cooled by swepeing over green fields and trees and is untainted by contact with the ovenlike cobblestones and brick walls.

History May Mislead.

Just as the Holy Bible is the arsenal from which every heretic draws his weapons, so general history is drawn upon to prove the heretical nonsense of every political ignoramus who presumes to instruct or sets out to deceive his fellow men. To draw true lessons from history requires not only a wide and correct knowledge of history itself, but the most careful and conscientious judgment as ever upon the matter in hand. The silver embarrasmen is a present condition, and a condition so utterly novel and unprecethe wisdom of the present and without regard to the past. For ages silver was a "precious" metal, today it has come to be a cheap and common metal and ceased to be precious. The supply of it is away beyond the world's legitimate needs for it, and for this reason it must and will ray and hard fare, and who tells the become cheaper and more common from year to year until the falling price corrects and checks itself by stopping pro-

HONEST DEMOCRATS.

The Sound Money Democracy of Massachusetts.

SHORT AND PITHY PARAGRAPHS. The opponents of sound money often attempt to confuse the argument by well. We have had a perfect flood of calling a gold dollar a 200-cent dollar, alleged historical information upon the and asserting that the real 100-cent silver question. But unfortunately for dollar is the silver dollar. If this were the silver people who have been seeking true, would not the wage-earner prefer to bolster their waning cause thereby, to receive his wages in 200-cent dollars this alleged history has no bearing what- than in 100-cent dollars? If free and unlimited coinage of silver should become lawful, does anybody believe that the workingmen would receive twice as dented that it has got to be settled out of many of the 100-cent dollars of silver, as they now receive in money every form of which is as good as gold? What shall be said of a man who ought to know, and doubtless does know the condition of Mexican labor, its scanty

Mr. Williams and Cheap Labor, Mr. Williams is unfortunate in his China, Japan and India with those of the United States. Everybody knows that lies of the workingmen were able to array the laborers of those countries are the receive almost nothing for what they do, ter built and better furnished houses the campaign progresses and the American laborer is made more fully aware of the condition of the laboring man in free classes than are now deposited by them | clude that the condition of the foreign laborer is not an enviable one, and not to be compared with that of the laborer of the United States, whose position is in every way preferable. False Hopes For Labor.

The Silver Craze.

The free silverites want more money, and if they get it the wheel of industry will hum. At least, they are telling the voters so. By some magic process-they do not explain how-the silver bullion coined into dollars for the private ao- may shift for itself; but he beggars labor, count of silver mine owners and specu- which is honest, unsuspecting and too busy lators pockets of the public. They say, too, that we have not money enough; if there were more money, busiunder the hoped-for regime of the free coinage king.

Either they do not know, or else they ment was authorized to purchase silver and coin into silver dollars not less than $2,000,000 nor more than $4,000,000 a month. The Sherman act, which superseded this in 1890, directed the purchase silver a month, and the issue against it of treasury legal tender notes for its cost. By virtue of the Sherman act, even, more silver is put into circulation than the demands of commerce require. The business community does not need now all that the government has the power to give it, and, moreover, these silver dollars of today have nearly the same purchasing power in foreign countries as they have here, being exchanged at a small discount by the money changers.

And yet, in spite of this, the political followers of Mr. Candidate Bryan tell as that, although the business world has more silver at this moment than it needs for circulation, by glutting it with more and depreciating its value 47 per cent, the golden age of prosperity will be upon us. Business men will not, and the intellitent voter cannot, be deceived by such

Dr. William Gallagher, for ten years the efficient principal of Williston seminary at Easthampton, has been elected principal Breed, rector. Holy Communion and ser- of Thayer Academy at Braintree and has resignation to the trustees of Williston seminary and he will leave Easthampton at the opening of the school year in September.

The announcement will be received with much regret, not only by the friends of the seminary, but by the people generally up and down the valley, who recognize in Dr. Gallagher those traits which make a successful educator and a valuable citizen. Dr. Gallagher's field of action has not been confined to the seminary or Easthampton, but he has never allowed the outside calls to interfere with his school work. He has frequently been called to supply pulpits in the vicinity and has always been heard with interest. His connection with the Connecticut Valley Congregational club has been very pleasant and his contributions to the programs have always been of a high order.

Dr. Gallagher went to Williston seminary from the Boston Latin school, taking charge at a time when the outlook for the future of the institution was not very bright. By the exercise of a rare executive reading, ear training, analysis, hand form ability with which he is endowed and by hard and presistent work he has brought back to the school that success and reputation which it enjoyed in its palmiest days. says the money system of the United States should be maintained on a gold standard and there are plenty of voters who. by their votes on election day, will show their approval of his ideas. On the other hand, says "enact legislation that will allow of the coinage of silver at at the ratio of 16 to 1." There are a large number of voters who will cast their votes in accordance with THAT doctrine. .

These are the two sides the great question of the day. Take your pick. Do not get excited in your arguments, but when you get through trying to convince the other fellow he is wrong and you are right, and you happen to think of that prescription your wife gave you to have filled, take it right into Hearn's Drug Store. You can rest assured that if you do so, you will have it put up with care, with the best of drugs and at as low a price as is consistent with these three essentials.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Ground Is Well Soaked, and Wells and Streams Replenished.

Early Frosts Reported In the Northern States.

Grass, Grains and Winter Fruits Doing Well and Up to Average.

Boston Sent 8-Cool weather prerailed in New England during the past week: some damage was done in valleys by frosts on the 2d and 5th. In southern sections it has been mostly fair during the day, with a moderate shower on the night of the 3d, and a heavy rain on the 5th and 6th. In the north, damp, cloudy weather has prevailed, and showers have been frequent. That of the 3d was heavy and damaging in northwest sections. The rain of the 5th and 6th was general and heavy over most of New England. The ground is well soaked, and is in good shape for fall seeding, and wells and streams have been benefited. The heaviest fall was 5.24 inches, at Portland, Me. At Eastport, Me., only .64 inch came, and at Nantucket, Mass., there was only .05 inch. At Boston, the fall was 2.10; at Northfield, Vt., 1.14; at Albany, 1.25, and at New York city, 1.14.

The week has given generally favorable weather in Maine for the growth and for ripening of corn. Late reports indicate that some damage was done in low places by frost, on Aug. 29, in Aroostook county, while tender plants and vines were injured to a slight extent in other sections on Sept. 2 and 5. The weather bureau observer at Eastport reports the rainfall for August the least on record for the month, except in 1883. The normal August fall is 3.48 inches, while the past month gave only 1.07 inches. Yet light showers were frequent, and crops made good growth.

In valleys and unsheltered plains the frost of the 5th did quite a good deal of damage in New Hampshire, but, generally, the crops are still growing and maturing well. Corn is being cut on early fields, but on late ones it was late in earing, and needs a week or two more for the best ripening. Pastures are in good condition. The second growth of back for nearly a foot. grass is doing well and some has been cut. Apples are still growing, and a big crop of winter fruit is assured. Grapes, piums and pears are plenty in southern counties. The pototo yield is variable, but the quality is generally good. The frosts of the 2d and 5th were general in Vermont, but no serious damage resulted. The cutting of field corn has department. een begun, and the crop is said to be nuch above the average. Some grain as been threshed and is yielding very

"WORN OUT."

A Common Expression Used by American Women.

Many do not Realize the Full Significance of Those Two Words.

When a woman is nervous and irritable, head and back ache, feels tired all the time, loses sleep and appetite, has pains in groins, bearing-down that a womb trouble is imminent, and she cannot act too promptly if she values her future comfort and happiness. The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America, go to prove beyond a question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble at once by removing the cause and restoring the organs to a healthy and normal condition. If in doubt, write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., as thousands of women do.

Here is a lady who says:-"Let me add my name to your list of testimonials. For years I suffered with such a weakness of the back I could not stand straight. I had terrible pains in my womb. The doctor said an operation must be performed, as there was no other way to be cured. I was afraid to have the operation performed, and kept trying the medicines that I saw advertised. At 15 last I tried yours. 4 After taking three & bottles I felt like a new woman. I rec ommend it to every woman, and cannot praise it enough, for it saved me from the surgeon's knife."-MRS. MARK BUCH, Dolgeville, N. Y.

The issue is great, and the work has been hard, so that we have every reason to anticipate and expect this result, even if our canvass didn't tell us it would be so. But we do not count upon a total vote of more than 140,000, which would be about 7000 less than the number thrown in the great greenback year of 1880. We count the combined opposition to the Republican ticket at 60,000; that is, we say the Democratic vote may be 60,000, thus allowing ourselves a safe margin of from 18,000 to 20,000 votes as the number by which w shall win.'

THE SPORTING WORLD.

Draughts in some shape or form is doubtless a very ancient pastime. Indeed the safest thing to say about it is that its origin is lost in the mists of antiquity. Representations of persons playing at a game resembling draughts are frequently found on ancient Egyptian monuments at least 3,000 years old. The Greeks had a similar game, from whom possibly it passed to t'. 3 Romans. At least the old Roman game of latrunculi seems to have been a kind of draughts, though it is doubtful if the game as now played is very ancient. The game was popular and well kno-n in France and Spain in the seventeenth century and was probably played there and in England centuries before that. into many of the other countries is evident from the fact that the French name —jeu de dames—passed with it.

A circumstance that was excessively amusing to every one who heard of it, except the victim, is being enjoyed by the gossips now. Two precious rascals were arraigned in court charged with larceny. A lawyer was assigned to defend them, and so well did he do his work that his clients were acquitted. In referring to them, in the course of his argument, he described them as high minded gentlemen who would not descend to anything so common and despicable as robbery. When the case was closed, the proud attorney was warmly congratulated upon his success by the men whom he had pulled out of what had appeared to be a mighty bad predicament. Civilized peoples the world over tacitly agree upon the value of a grain of gold. Gold has come to be thus esteemed because of its generally close approximation to fixedness in value. And for this reason it has come to be recognized and adopted as the universal standard of measure of the values of other exchangeable commodities among men.

It is not absolutely changeless in value because the relation of its supply to the demand for it varies somewhat from time to time, but is affected by these influences less than any other available thing and is therefore the best attainable standard. We have a standard of weights -an ideal, one which is perfect-and a practical one ascertained and determined by scales of iron and steel which vary in varying temperatures—but not enough to make them objectionable although they are not ideally and absolutely perfect. Now a substance which would expand and contract through a wide range on account of temperature differences would manifestly be unfit to make scale bars of, and so, any material which is liable to violent fluctuations in value would be, and is unfit to be made into money with which to measure our standard commercial transactions.

Any substance is Good Enough to Make Money Of, so long as that money has its nominal value guaranteed by a government which is able and willing to make good its face, just as any man's note is good enough to buy, if sufficiently endorsed.

Now up to about 25 years ago, for more than three score years, neither the price of silver nor the price of gold veried to any material extent, and like two parallel straight lines they kept a fixed and steady relation the one to the other, and the nations of the world recognizing this fixedness, were enabled to use both gold and silver as money at a legally announced ratio. The coinage legislation of the world during this period did not make this relation, but it was enacted in recognition of it and as soon as the tremendously increased production of silver which began in the early 70s, commenced to lower its price, the great commercial nations one after another had as a matter of wisdom and safety to recognize the change and abandon the folly of decreeing that a lie should be accepted as the truth by the bankers and business men of the world.

After a while

induced the United States government to purchase their silver at the market price -so many ounces a month, and to use a certain fixed quantity of it to stamp its promise to pay a dollar upon. Of course these promises to pay were good so long as they were within the limit of the government's ability of redemption, but neither more nor less so than if they had been printed upon an inexpensive piece of paper. In fact, it would have been better for the people if the government had stamped them upon paper, as in this event the loss of $100,000,000 which it has sustained upon the depreciation of the stock of silver of which it became the enforced owner would not now have to be made up by taxation as it must be, in addition to the redemption of the stamped silver promises themselves.

Now up to this point these dollar promises stamped upon silver discs have, thanks to the wisdom of our wise and honest president, been kept within the redemption ability of the national treasury and are everywhere good for their face within our borders.

The time has come, however, when the silver mine owners have raised a popular clamor for a new policy. They want to have the government make all their silver and all the silver that is brought to its mints into

of 371 grains each for their private account, and to compel the American people to accept them as legal money without the promise of redemption of the government. The quantity of silver in these dollars at today's prices would be about 51 cents and as the government would not be responsible for them this would be their real value.

A note is worth what it is worth by

A note is worth what it is worth by virtue of the name which is signed to it, and if it be unsigned it is simply worth the paper upon which it is written, neither more nor less. And so the United States certificate of fineness and quantity upon a disc of silver would simply indicate one of the elements which would enable its owner to calculate its value at any day's price of silver bullion, but as it could not be construed into a promise to redeem at a fixed value—the disc would be worth its bullion price—and that only like the paper of an unsigned note.

The effect of this would be that our dealers would no longer dare to seil their goods at gold prices when silver could be legally tendered to them in payment therefor and their prices would have to be readjusted or raised to correspond to the depreciated price of silver. Gold itself would come under the same rule as no sane man would let it out for an obligation to be repaid in silver at

Haif Its Value,

and it would therefore disappear from circulation, as it has done before in the history of the financial world. This would place our domestic business upon a silver basis and the merchant who sold his goods at a fair margin of profit would have to take the risk of having this margin swallowed up by fluctuations in the price of this unstable metal before he could collect his bill, and so with the manufacturer. Thus would be added an element of uncertainty to business which would be sure to paralyze industry and throw thousands and tens of thousands of workmen out of employment, while the capital thus driven away from industrial channels would seek investment in low priced but safe securities in the gold using countries of the

This is a colossal plot of the wiekedest trust that was ever organized to rob a free people. The five hundred million silver combine of the west is using its funds to confuse the people and to lure them on to their own ruin under the influence of corrupt and corrupted political leaders. HER ONLY CANDIDATE

Western Massachusetts United For Winthrop Murray Crane,

He Is Named as Candidate For Lieutenant Governor.

A Brief Sketch of His Active Business and Political Life.

In the field of state politics western Massachusetts has but one candidate before the party this year; a man who has the enthusiastic backing and the whole souled support of the four western counties. As the state government exists today, the eastern portion of the state is represented by Lieutenant Governor Wolcott and Secretary Olin; Essex county has Treasurer Shaw; the southeastern section Attorney General Knowlton of Bristol county, and central Massachusetts has Auditor Kimball of Worcester county. By party tradition, consideration has always been given the western counties in the distribution of candidates upon the Republican staticket. Its candidate this year is Hot Winthrop Murray Crane of Dalton for lieutenant governor.

WINTHROP MURRAY CRANE. Mr. Crane was born in Dalton in 1811 where he has always lived. He is the so: of the late Zenas M. Crane, and his grandfather, Zenas, was the founder of the Old Berkshire paper mill on the bank of the Housatonic in the year 1801. This was the first paper mill in that section of the State, and the old pioneer's sons and grandsons have succeeded him in the business, there being now four paper mills in their control; the Old Berkshire the Pioneer, which is second to noneinth country in its facilities, the Bay State and the Government mill at Pittsfield where the bond paper used by the govern-ment is made. Mr. Crane has been the guiding and controlling mind, not only in the paper mills, but in other numerous enterprises of the Cranes. It is one of the creditable things concerning this firm that never in their history has there been a labor difficulty to mar their peace of reputation, but, on the contrary, their uniform honorable and fair dealing and public spirited support of all that has made for the welfare of the locality in which they have lived and done busines for these many years has so endeared them to the people that without division the Republicans of this section rally to the standard of the western Massachu-The recent unfortunate attempts to

The recent unfortunate attempts to prove his hostility to the interests of the laboring men has greatly strengthened him in the minds of the rank and file of the voters. While intended to place Mr. Crane in an unfavorable attitude toward labor and so jeopardize his prospects, the attack has promoted his candidacy to a great extent.

Though never before a candidate for public office, Mr. Crane has had a lam political experience. For many year he has been a leader in party count He has twice been honored with anel tion as delegate-at-large to the nati conventions of his party. As a furt 1892 elected him a member from t commonwealth of the national comm tee, and his service in that capacity been conspicuously efficient. New York, Sept. 8 .- William Moran, coachman for Judge Wandell, at his summer home in Saddle Rock, N. J., shot and killed Mr. Dowling of New York, a guest of the Wandells, and then committed suicide yesterday afternoon. It is said that Mr. Dowling was the favorite suitor of one of Judge Wandell's family. The coachman, who had long been in the family, and who was not treated like the other servants, is said to have gone mad with love for the same young woman.

South Carolina Crookedness.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 8.-The disclosures in connection with the administration of the dispensary law in this state have created the most intense interest. The facts evidently were brought to the surface by the bitterness of the fight between Judge Earle and Governor Evans, for senatorial honors. The charges and counter charges are beernor Evans for senatorial honors. The and Superintendent Mixson, in control of the administration of the dispensary law in South Carolina, on the other. The son of the latter acknowledges having received money from whisky people, but exonerates his father, who denies all guilt. Governor Evans is accused of failing to give an itemized account of a charge against the dispensary law of $150 for a trip to Washington. The governor says the expenditure was legitimate. Political wiseacres declare the disclosures will result in the total disruption of the reform factions.

One Engine Wrecked.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 9.-A locomotive, which backed out from this city o bring in a freight train from North Dana, the engine of which was disabled, collided with a passenger train yesterday afternoon at the Red Bridge flag station, two miles from Collins. Mrs. A. W. Slate of this city was injured, and a number of passengers received slight bruises. The freight locomotive was a total wreck, and the locomotive of the passenger train derailed. The passenger train was flagged at Red Bridge, and was only going at 10 miles an hour when the collision occurred, but the freight locomotive' was going at 20 miles an hour. There is a bad curve at Red Bridge, and Mayor Adams Recalls His Order to Street Railway Company.

And Said Company Will Put in Petiion in Due Form.

The Fifteen Minute Time Was too Much of a Convenience.

The turnouts of the Quincy & Boston street railway on Hancock street, over which much has been said first and last by the City Council, and which Mayor Adams ordered the street railway to remove inside of a week, will not be removed just at present, the order having been revoked.

It was nearly eleven o'clock Tuesday night when the Mayor called upon the street railway people and told them that after further consideration he had come to the conclusion that the City Council and the citizens did not wish to have the turnouts on Hancock street removed and all that the Council desired was that the company should petition the City Council for any turnouts it wanted.

In view of this fact he informed the officials that he would withdraw his order is a member, is arranging for a grand to remove the turnouts on Hancock street association rendezvous as a wind up of the with the understanding that the company season to be held Saturday and Sunday, should petition the Council at its next meeting in regular form for the turnouts

Sworn Statement

A sworn circulation of the Boston Journal has been issued by the editor and publisher, and the figures indicate that the paper is continuing to grow more and more popular among the readers of New England and especially of those in its immediate home district. The Journal, to illustrate its increasing growth, took the dul est three months of the year-June, July and August. In June the average circulation was 72,047, in July 76,447, and in August, 74,650. August is usually, with all papers, the worst month in the year for circulation, yet the Journal's growth has been such that its cash receipts from circulation in August, 1896, were larger than in any month since April, 1885.

Abdullad et Taishi, khalifa, was the most powerful and successful of the three khalifas of the three leading Arab tribes that in 1882 helped the mahdi to overthrow the government of Egypt in the eastern Soudan and establish the Mahdist khalifas commanded a distinct sectio of the mahdi's army, and Abdullah's force had most to do with the annihilation of General Hicks and his army Abdullah was the only man who coul maintain the strange empire he had rapacious Soudanese tribes. Before hi cruel and tyrannical Arab tribe of the Baggaras, whose leader was Abdullah became the masters of the Egyptian The mahdi died on June 22, 1885, afte three years of power, and Abdullah has since been known as "the mahdi's suc too strong for his enemies in the oth made it his business to render the other came men of little influence. He sen in chains hundreds of miles up the Nile and he permitted his Baggara to plunde the other tribes without mercy, under the pretext of levying taxes. There has been only one ruler of the Soudan for the The new High school class at the Quincy past 11 years, and he has been four months ago. Then he was fright

If Abdullah is dead, he has fallen while still almost a young man, for he was only 46 years old this year. He was a Baggara, with dark, coffee-colored com plexion, his face much marked by smallpox. He had a long and prominent nos and wore a short beard, according to the Moslem custom. He could never con ceal his Baggara accent and dialect in speaking Arabic. He was gifted by na ture with tremendous energy and com mon sense, but he had no education what ever. He could not read or write, and for this reason he would never accept a written petition. He was very cruel by nature, while the mahdi was naturall humane. In the terrible days of the famine, when bones were ground to powder, made into a sort of bread, an eaten with eagerness in Omdifrman the khalifa showed no mercy, pity or desire to relieve these terrible suffrings. He did not care a jot for any of the people except his Baggara, and he made surre that they were all well fed. He treated the white prisoners in his hands with great cruelty, except a few whom he could make useful to him, and their en joyment of his favor was spasmodic and

The khalifa's empire, within which not a particle of European influence has permeated since the madhi captured Khartoum, extends from the western limits of Kordofan to Abyssinia on the east, and embraces about 700,000 square miles.

Like the mahdi, Abdullah wished to destroy even the recollection of the old regime under the Egyptian government This is the reason that they destroyed so many of the old towns which had attained some measure of prosperity under the Egyptians. Old Berber was de serted and a new Berber was built by the khalifa's command just north of the old town. This is the reason, and the only one, why by far the finest city in tropical east Africa was laid in ruins. It was the work of the khalifa. "He left hardly one stone upon another in Khartoum. Both Father Ohrmalder and Slatin Pasha has told that the khalifa was intensely vain and proud, cruel and keep up and quick-tempered. He adhered very strictly continue the round, steady whole year to the prescribed forms of prayer, and insisted that the people should be humble insisted that the people should be humble and devout, though himself, of late years, Hood's Sarsaparilla has more real cura- has lived in part the life of a voluptuary tive merit than any medicine I ever sold." But he did not permit pleasure to interfere with anairs of state. He was a man of great activity, and directed all important business in person. He also received the reports on the most trivial affairs, and was always overwhelmed with business. For two or three years past he had given rather less attention to business, and more to his numerous. fere with affairs of state. He was a man has cured more sickness, and made more portant business in person. He also reto business, and more to his numerous family of wives. All the judges were his tools, and thus the khalifa secured in his own person the right to pardon or to convict. He was the absolute master of life and death. No private person was life and death. No private person was permitted to possess firearms. The crime of using tobacco was punishable with 80 lashes. He terrorized all the people except his Baggara.

It will take a very large ballot this year to hold all the nominations, as the size of the type is limited. The city of Boston are replanking their

During the storm the forward chain of the Quincy Yacht club's large float gave away and the float swung around parallel with the small float.

One of Rogers Bros. horses sunk in water trench on Miller Stile avenue this morning, the earth caving in where pipe had been laid. He was got out with difficulty.

The pain ay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose. Catarrh and rheumatism were also causing him much trouble, until he tried P. P. P. He says he is well and will swear that there are no cases of no matter how chronic or how old the

LIVELY RATE WAR.

Steamship Fares Between Boston and the Provinces at Bed Rock.

Boston, Sept. 11.-The steamship line doing business between this port and maritime provinces are just now engaged in an old time rate-cutting war, and fares are being slashed right and left. From present appearances, the railroads running from here eastward, as well as those in the provinces, will be involved unless harmony is restored at an early date. The lines engaged in the slaughter of rates are the Plants system, International Steamship company and the Yarmouth Steamship company, the latter now receiving the aid of the Dominion Atlantic railway and the Central railway of Nova Scotia. The Plant line runs its provincial steamers between Boston and Halifax, Port Hawkesbury, N. S., and Charlottetown, P. E. I. The International line runs to St. John, N. B., and has a speedy connection with Nova Scotia by means of the steamer Prince Rupert, one of the swiftest boats on the Atlantic coast. The Yarmouth line does business between Boston and Yarmouth,

According to the Yarmouth and Plant lines, the present rate was inaugurated by the International line. All three steamship lines, together with the Boston and Maine, Maine Central, Canadian Pacific and Intercolonial railways, formed the Provincial Passenger association about two years ago, and since At Baltimore-Baltimore, 14; Brooklyn, have agreed on a fixed tariff for all lines. The Plant line always insisted in At Washington-Washington, 6; Philahaving a 50-cent differential rate to Halifax, but this was settled this season at a meeting of the association in Halifax. FIRST LOVE.

First love is best, the poet said-Ah, poet, wise and true! In youth it fanned my heart to flame, n manhood burns—about the same And will my whole life through.

That first love! Can I e'er forget The dawn of that fair time When dimpled cheeks and soulful eyes Revealed a gampse of paradise, And I bowed at the shrine?

Twas then I swore my heart was true; That she was wondrous fair. But here today I'val ied in vain Just to recall her Christian name And gave up in despair.

Many a maid I've loved since then-Hope to love many yet— An Alice once, a winsome Ray, A Beatrice and twice a May, And then a Margaret.

But then I know the poet said The first love stirs the flame. Though maids galore you love and woo, That first love lasts your whole life

SHROUDED IN SNOW.

There is, perhaps, no finer view of Mont Blanc in or around Geneva than that to be obtained from Colonel Tron- frozen sea and showing them the fissures chin's tower on the hill above Coligny. There you get a sunset effect that must have made many a painter despair, and, in the estimation of some, is superior to the grandeur of the sunrise seen from the Rigi. It is astonishing how the light lingers and the snow reddens in the sun after the orb has vanished beyond the of the iceborn Arve. green range of the Jura. The changing hues of the twilight-from the alabaster steely gray, from the gray to the vivid mist arising from the valleys-are alone worth the trouble and expense of a special journey.

Geneva, indeed, is a delightful place at all times. The lovely lake, the stately Rhone, the turbulent Arve, the snowy mountain ranges cut in dazzling whiteness on the azure sky are attractions the like of which are not found together elsewhere, but with Mont Blanc included there is a combination of pleasing scenery perfectly irresistible. The many peaks that circle the Val d'Aoste are beautiful undoubtedly, but lacking the monarch of the mountains the view would seem shorn of half its glory. With him the panorama is perfect, the picture is complete. From this point of vantage a couple of tourists, with a peasant girl, are admiring the inimitable tinting of the sunset sky. "You are right, Gisela, by Jove! This is the best I have seen since we entered your wonderful country. If this golden glow would only last! I be- cautiously against a stone. lieve I could look at it almost as long as I could at your pretty face, ma chere."

It is Sydney Athelstan, a tall, dark haired, well set up young Englishman, who speaks. He is touring Switzerland for the first time. Gisela's face flushes as rosy red as the fragrant rhododendron that flames the snow and ice 5,000 feet above them as she answers:

"You flatter me, m'sieur, but it is beautiful, for the night is clear. Let go chilo

"But with the grace of a lady and the beauty of an artist's ideal!" fervently exclaims the young man. "M'Dieu, but you were made for something better than a mere cottager's daughter."

The girl wrenches her hand from his. The rose flush on her cheek fires into vivid scarlet. She points down the rugged path.

"If you will not have prudence, m'sieur, I must return alone to my father's roof, where Giotto, my betrothed, awaits me. I came to show you and your friend the place where the great English poet lived, and then the view of the mountain from here. Let us return together.'

Athelstan listens with his soul in his eyes. Blue, uncertain, distrustful eyes they are, but fascinating to women.

As for Gisela, her wild rose beauty the glow of a deep passion, for, despite her betrothal to Giotto and despite her shyness, she loves her stalwart young Englishman in her heart, and her bright eves flash with pleasure at his coming. It is so much better for two people to go thus, with one trusty guide, than to loiter in parties, she says, as they are crossing the meadows in the valley. There is less danger of accident with fewer travelers together, except on the high peaks, where the rope is useful. And so she leads them on, stepping over the furious river and climbing the precipices by a rugged path, now winding amid the firs and now through the verdant grass until they reach Montauvert, where you can stand on the edge of the plateau and look down on one side into the frozen sea and on the other into the vale of Chamouni.

From the surface of the sea of frozen billows the granite needles rise toward the sky, void of snow or ice, bidding defiance alike to the lightning and the tempests and the glacier sweeping past their base. They are grand, impressive, sublime, says Gisela, leading her companions by the side of the ice, where the rock and gravel are raised in a gigantic furrow by the frost and the avalanches and the crystal ocean grinding down its mountain bed; then, taking them out a little upon the bosom of the and crevasses where the ice glitters clearer and up from the depths rolls the thunder of the ice masses falling from the roof of the crystal cavern at the foot of the glacier, where at intervals, bending low, you may hear the ripple of the rills that are hastening down to join and issue in the cold and muddy torrent

ADVANTAGE OF LOW PRICES TO THE WORKINGMAN.

When in doubt, it is always best to hold on to the things that we are sure of rather than to sacrifice these in attempting to get at others of which we know little or nothing. Regardless of the The Vital Question With Many reckless misstatements of the men who are seeking political advantages for themselves and their friends through an excited advocacy of the free coinage of silver, our present system has worked well and has proven itself better than any that preceded it, while the often tried and always abandoned scheme of chear and dishonest money is sure, if readopted, to hurt present conditions and to bring widespread ruin and suffering upon the people of our country. No class knows that relief must come quickly, or invariably honest currency as the laborers have. We hear an unceasing din of They would make you believe that gold has increased in value and that it has hardened the general conditions of life so that it is more difficult for a man who has all his Capital In Brain and Brawn

to live and emancipate himself from the or 30 years ago. Now the true test of any social or economic system is its tendency in relation to the amount of labor that the individual worker must perform in order to live, and the time that it will take him, with diligence and thrift, to free himself from the necessity of labor for the balance of his life. Or in other words, that a system under which a man may work himself out of the necessity of further toil in a shorter time, is better than a system where it will require a regard to the wonderful cures I have longer time, or be altogether impossible. Now it is plain to see that the two necessary elements in a system of this desirable kind must be high wages and low prices for the necessaries of life, and these are just what prevail today, and we should have restored confidence and constant employment for all. Since 1860

New patterns, no old stock, new goods; cheaper than ever at GUY'S COLISEUM, wages have advanced according with this miserable question of our naunquestioned authority of Carroll D. Wright, 68 per cent, and the purchasing power of these wages has increased in addition something over 70 per cent. A man who earned $1 per day in 1860 and lived upon it, and used it all up, would have had to work along from hand to mouth to the last day of his life. The same man, Working Less Hours Per Day, and performing the same service, could now earn $1.68, and if he was willing, for the sake of growing independent to live as he did in 1860, he would need to spend but about 60 cents of it. Mind you-no man is required to save his surplus; he may use it, as most people do, in increasing comforts of living, if he wishes to, but if he would become rich and independent he must sacrifice and save. In 1860 he had to sacrifice and could not save. Today it is possible for him with self-denial to live out any single day's wages and to lay up nearly enough to take care of him for some other two days in the future besides. So that it is feasible under our present system for any laboring man of thrifty habits, so far as he, individually, is concerned, if he begins to work at the age of 15, to save enough by the time he is 50 to retire and Live Without Work until he is 85, even if he lived continuously upon his principal and received no interest. Under free coinage, wages would be increased little or nothing, while other prices would be nearly, if not quite doubled, so that the ability of the workingmen to save would be again destroyed by an increased cost of living, and the old time slavery of would be restored. This matter is involved in the present political campaign, and every man who votes, votes either to keep the new conditions or to restore the old hopelessness of poverty.

SOUND AND TRUE. Daniel Webster on the Currency.

Sir, the very best man of all others who has the depest interest in a sound currency, who suffers most by mischievous legislation in money matters, is the man who earns his daily bread by his daily toil. A depreciated currency, sudden change in prices, paper money falling between morning and noon and fall-ing still lower between noon and nightthese things constitute the very harvest time of speculators and of the whole race of those who are at once idle and crafty, and of that other race, too, the Catilines of all times, marked so as to be known forever, by one stroke of the historian's pen, "those greedy of other men's property and prodigal of their own."

Capitalists, too, may outlive such times; they may either prey on the earnings of labor by their cent. per cent., or may hoard. But the laboring man, what can he heard? Preying on nobody, he becomes the prey of all. His property is in his hands. His reliance, his fund, his productive freehold, his all, is his labor. Whether he work on his own small capital or another's, his living is still earned by his industry; and when the money of the country becomes depreciated and debased, whether it be adulterated coin or paper, without credit, that industry is robbed of its reward. He then labors for a country whose laws cheat him out of his bread.

I would say to every owner of every quarter section of land in the west, I would say to every man in the east who follows his own plow, and to every mechanic, artisan and laborer in every city in the country-I would say to every man, everywhere, who wishes by honest means to gain an honest living: "Beware of wolves in sheep's clothing. Whoever attempts, under whatever popular cry, to shake the stability of the popular currency, bring on distress in money matters and drive the country into the use of depreciated money, stabs your interests and your happiness to the heart.'

EFFECT ON ONE SILVER MINE. Thomas G. Merrill, one of the owners of the Liverpool mine in Montana, in speaking of the closing down of the mine for an indefinite period, gave utterances to the following: If this trouble had not come up we would have continued development work and would have taken out the usual amount of ore. As it is, we feel that it will result in our advantage to let the mine remain idle for a time. If we get free coinage in this country, as I surely think we will at no distant day, the mine will be worth Office, 4 Chestnut St., Quincy, Mass. twice as much as it is now. We will then receive for our product 129 cents an ounce, and the difference between that and the present price of about 68 cents will be clear profit, for the expense will come out of the price we are receiving new just as it has in the past. "Colton, Cal. Messrs. Gilman Bros.:

I found out the virtues of your Dr. Seth Arnold's Balsam in 1875, in Massachusetts. My child was given up by doctors. A friend who had used the Balsam when in the army, recommended it to me, and I have used it ever since. I have it in the house the same as I do flour. It has always worked like a charm in my family, as it has saved the lives of two of my children, after both had been given up. I could write of numerous cures of dysentery, and a testimonial as long as the moral law in made in my family, and others. It's the greatest medicine of the age.

[Special Corre CENTER HARBOR, N. H., Sept. 1 The man most missed probably from the lake and mountain region of New England is the poet Whittier. He used to come up here every summer, and since his lamented death, four years ago, this region has seemed almost uninteresting without him. Although I first met our Our Telephone Number is 48-3 homes—in Danvers, mass.—it was in the mountains afterward that I really made his acquaintance.

As his friends and neighbors well know, Mr. Whittier was by no means a rover, and not a very good traveler, either. The extent of his travels may be bounded by Philadelphia or Washington on the west and by the central portion of the Maine coast on the east. Always home loving, always preferring closely than he the adventures and journeyings of others.

Home loving and home staying, yet Whittier might have been at loss sometimes to tell just where his home was placed. Born on that rough and Haverhill, he was early forced by cirhe was not strong enough for the stress events, it was not until he became well The regular meeting of the Wollaston advanced in life that he owned a home of his own, which he located in Amesof the same be transmitted to him by the bury, Mass., in the same county of Essex. Later still some good cousins of his who had acquired an estate in Danvers offered him a refuge there after his beloved sister died. He staid with them a good part of the year, dividing his time between Danvers and Amesbury, and with occasional visits to the mountains. It would have seemed more fitting, I think, if Whittier had clung to the old farm, where his boyhood days were spent, the scene of "Snow Bound," the rugged, beautiful character of which so accorded with his own. But the truth is that he loved to be among and near men of action and aspirations, though at the same time he shrank from mingling with the crowd. His was a pure, shy and even shrinking nature, which, while yet in touch with the busy world, wished to retain its right to seclusion, to meditate apart.

Whittier is pre-eminently the New England poet, and none knew more than he its history, its legends, its natural beauties. When the season came around the country, he serenely journeyed toward the mountains, preferring some spot which, if not actually among the mountains, yet was within sight of them. Having found a spot suited to his moods, he made it a favorite one for his summer journeyings, going to it year after year and weaving its scenery and traditions into his poems. Such a spot influences upon his mind in various poems, as in "Bearcamp Water" Rumor has it that an out of town firm think it is). The old hotel to which he burg, another sleepy town, where, by the way, Daniel Webster once taught school. These places are all in the eastern part of New Hampshire, but later on he got over into the western section, and thenceforth Squam lake, Winnepesaukee and the towns on their watersheds became the favorites of his old

Always reserved and unobtrusive, his presence might never have been known to other visitors were it not for the Nemesis of reputation which he laughingly said invariably ran him to earth. He liked the society of young folks as well as of old people, and the most cher-There are only two states west of the ished picture I have of him is in com-Missouri river that have more than ten, pany with one who was very dear to me 1st. Together they used to ramble the fields of Shepard's hill, above the beautiful Asquam, and spend hours in converse amid the rocks in the old pastures.

He liked to sit in the shade of rock or tree, either in conversation with a friend or in rapt self communion, where, spread out before him lay some beautiful and inspiring scene, like that from the heights above Squam lake. Winnepesaukee also was a favorite lake of his, and he looked upon it always with the eye of an artist. There are few more attractive lakes than these two I have mentioned, embosomed as they are among the hills and reflecting the summits of the higher mountains. The poet never fished or hunted, rarely climbed a hill on foot and seldom ventured far away from the chosen domicile for the space allotted for his stay. But few knew better than he the best places to cast a line, or the finest view, or the scene of Indian tradition and colonial legend. Hundreds of houses were open to him, but he generally preferred stopping at a hotel, for reasons of his own, which were respected by his friends. One of the farmhouses at which he loved to visit was about a mile above Center Harbor, where, in its rocky hill pasture, stands the magnificent pine which he has celebrated in his poem, the "Wood Giant." As to places since become famous through association with his poems, pilgrimages are made to this relic of the forest, standing there in beauty and grandeur, woven about it the intangible halo of the poet's art; so, to far "Frederick town," for a glimpse of the old house where Barbara Frietchie waved the flag, to Hampton Beach as the scene of the "Tent," to Haverhill, most sacred of all, to recall pictures of "Snow Bound," to the isles of Shoals and to Portsmouth and Amesbury, every summer sees its processions of Whittier lovers wending thitherward to Prepared by C. Canadian Cattle Can Once More Be Shipped From There.

Strong Argument of Chamber of Commerce

Small Proportions.

Boston, Sept. 12.—The shipment of Canadian cattle from this port was renewed today, when 475 head were exported to Liverpool. This business will be continued right along during the rest of this month, and other large shipments are in sight. The crew escaped, dispatches were sent from way stations tinuing their journey through the states, the providing of similar yards in Boston for inspection, and the resting for the 24 hours required by law; and, lastly, certain facilities for disinfecting cattle cars. The granting of this privilege came so late in the season that the space of the steamers sailing from this port had already been engaged at Liverpool; therefore, the facilities were not furnished last spring.

Boston is the first cattle port in point of importance in the United States, not excepting New York, and this year it is doing much more in this line than ever before. For the first eight months of the year 116,000 head of cattle were exported, as against 73,000 head for the corresponding period last year, which was considered as a large year. Yet our cattlecarrying capacity is not yet reached, so It is believed that, with the opportunity opened for the export of Canadian cattle, we shall be able annually to handle such cattle as shall be offered, and give to the Canadian shippers splendid facilities for the transportation of their business, which will in the future build up a fine Canadian traffic of this kind.

As showing some of the benefits that will come to Boston by this important concession, Secretary Preston says that the Scotsman, a Warren line steamer was taken from here a year ago and sent to Montreal, for the sole reason that the Montreal cattle rate was higher than the Boston rate, and that they could not ship Canadian cattle with a profit by way of Boston. The Ottoman, another Warren line steamer, also was sent to Montreal for the same reason. They will both be restored to the Boston trade, in anticipation of this line of traffic. It will readily be seen that during their absence our tonnage has been materi-15c. bot., $1.70 doz. ally reduced, due to the fact that this port has been closed to the export of 1 Oc. bot. leave Liverpool in November, to enter again the Boston service, and it is expected that they will remain here permanently, now that this port has been

SATURDAY, SEPT. 12, 1896.

James H. Thayer.

Death has removed this week another respected citizen and member of the Grand Army. Mr. James W. Thayer, of Braintree, who hasbeen an invalid for nearly three years was called to rest Thursday morning.

Mr. Thayer enlisted as a private in Company I of the 38th Mass. Volunteers, August 8, 1862.

He served his country faithfully for three years. He was with General Banks in the Red River expedition and with Sheridan in the Shenandoah Valley. He became identified with the Post at Quincy, but in 890 joined the Post at Braintree.

Mr. Thayer was a good citizen, a shoe maker by trade and at which he worked until ill health compelled him to stop. He leaves one invalid daughter. The funeral will take place tomorrow at 1 o'clock.

Since writing the above we learn that Mrs. Thayer died from the effects of her injuries, this morning at 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Thaver was the daughter of Mr. John and Mrs. Nancy (Harris) Parker of Quincy, where she was born Sept. 2, 1843. She was a devoted wife and mother and her remains will be placed in the grave with her husband whose funeral takes place tomorrow.

Rev. Charles S. Nickerson of Quincy is expected to officiate.

Castle Square Theatre.

The opening of the Castle Square Theatre for the season has made a welcome event of the past week to the thousands of music lovers in and about Boston. The first attraction "Erminie" has delighted audiences, limited only by the capacity of the big auditorium all the week; and it is announced for another week. The newly organized company with Mr. J. J. Jaxon as general director and Mr. Max Hirschfeld as musical director, has made an instantaneous success, and promises to more than maintain the high standard of last season's performances. Miss Laura Millard, the new prima donna, Miss Laura Rudisill, Miss Bertha Wilson and Messrs. Edgar Temple, the new tenor, Oscar Girard, the new comedian, Charles M. Holly, Lindsey Morrison, and E. LaNyon, who come to the Castle Square footlights for the first time in this production, have already ample reasons to be satisfied with their standing as Boston favorites. SUGAR TREE SAP.

Why It Flows Even When the Ground Is Frozen Hard.

There is much difference of opinion as to where the sap of the tree comes from. It does not come from the ground by the roots, but is in the tree and has been all the winter, but in the form of starch deposited in the cells of the soft wood under the bark. When the weather becomes warm enough in the spring to set the vital processes in the tree into action, this starch is changed into Michael Lyons, Stephen B. Little, James sugar and the cells become so full of the sweet sap as to exert a great pres-

When the spring begins, the warmth of the sun starts this vital action and the sap circulates through the cells on the way to the buds, which will swell and soon burst into leaf. When the sugar maker taps the tree, the pressure of the sap on the cells forces it to exude and flow from the opening made into the sap wood. There is no special curat Chicago by the National Democratic rent up from the roots or down to them; convention and pledge our support to its the tree is simply filled with sap all through the sap wood, and mostly at that part of it which lies immediately the candidacy of the Hon. The sap will flow while the ground is frozen, for it is the warmth in the air that causes the flow and not the action of the roots in the soil. Thus it is quite useless to spread any litter or other nonconducting matter under the tree in the expectation that if the ground be kept frozer the budding will be delayed. If this effect be desired the must be covered in and kept in a dormant condition by a low temperature all over. Thus young trees may be kept in cold storage for months, and are so kept for shipment to Australia, where the seasons are exactly the opposite of ours .- New York Times.

Notwithstanding she was not a dame of high degree, she was a woman of character, and there was a peculiar aggressiveness in the freckle on her nose which made the police officers on duty at the station house step around lively when she called on a matter of business.

"I understand," she said to the sergeant, "that there's the body of a man waiting to be identified here."

"It is at the morgue, madam," responded the sergeant, but with more suavity than is common.

"Well, my husband hasn't been at home for three days, and I thought it might be him. Can you tell me what day, Wanda goes into the truck garden he looks like?" "Yes; but you could get a good deal more satisfaction by going to the morgue yourself, ma'am." "I suppose I could," she sighed as if she felt sure she would not identify the

This changes the picture to one in of the honest farmer there is the foreign

The Poles and Germans seem to take most naturally to this business. Perhaps it is because it is the work which they were accustomed to do in the old country. Sometimes the truck farmer does his work with the help of the members of his own family, but in most cases he tecomes a capitalist in a limited way and gets possession of leases for several acres of ground. Then, when he comes to get his helpers, he hires the cheapest labor possible, and that, as is always the case, is the labor of women. The Polish women seem to be in the majority among the truck garden workers. Before they came across the sea Wanda and Ilona were accustomed to Here is the Place do the hardest part of the work in the fields, and they see no reason why they should not do it here. Perhaps you have seen them as you whirled through the outskirts of some big city on an express train. Between the long rows of vegetables you will see bent figures of women drudging on hands and knees in the baking, scorching sunlight. That is the way they toil from May until October. Sometimes they work with the thermometer at Her tone indicated that she thought from 120 to 130 in the sun. There is no shade for them. Again, they creep along the furrows in two or three inches of mud and water. The despised scrubwould kill them outright. They are used to standing in the blistering rays of the sun and the driving rain, but the toil puts a permanent crook in their backs, wrinkles their faces and makes them prematurely aged.

In Greater New York are hundreds of such farms, and within the limits of Chicago are raised enough vegetables to supply the whole of populous Cook county. Gardening is most tedious and back breaking work, as every one knows who has ever tried it on even a small scale. It is a new condition, and one not bear or have borne the name of Billings, or as yet widely recognized, which shifts this labor to the shoulders of the weaker sex. ANNETTE CRAWFORD.

THE FEW Wollaston gentlemen who kick because Saturday's LEDGER spoke of the Wollaston caucus as a Populistic-Democratic one, should bear in mind that it is no disgrace to be a Populist, no more so than to be a Republican or a Democrat. Mr. Bryan is the nominee of the Populist party as well as of the Democratic. Therefore it is perfectly proper that both elements should have been in evidence at the caucus. It has been evident for some time that there is considerable friction among the Wollaston Democrats.

THE ONLY thing now to retard work on a sewer system is the stringency of the money market. It would be impossible to negotiate sewer bonds now on favorable terms. Yet this work should go on. There is a demand for a sewer system and it is apparent to almost all house owners, especially in the more thickly settled portions Old W. M. No appropriation should be made unless it is really the intention to begin work immediately, and only the sum to be expended in 1896 should be appropriated.

Powers' Plurality In Maine Hovers About the 50,000 Mark.

The Republican party has achieved The Republican party has achieved this day the most sweeping and magnificent victory ever accorded to any party in the state of Maine. We have carried every county in the state; elected every state senator; at least 140 out of 151 members of the house of representatives; secured every county officer; given each member of our magnificent delegation in the house of representatives. delegation in the house of representa-tives the largest majority they ever re-ceived; elected our candidate for gov-ernor by the greatest majority ever given a candidate for that high office; endorsed the St. Louis platform, and deendorsed the St. Louis platform, and de-clared for McKinley and Hobart by 50,-600 majority. Its forces in all parts of the state were united and worked harmoniously, its fund for the distribution of literature and for defraying the expenses of speakers was ample, and the campaign was pushed with a vigor and enthusiasm never exceeded in the state. The most effective work was done from the stump, and never did a more formidable array of campaign orators expound Republican doctrines in a New England state. But the struggle was not entirely one sided. With internal dissentions and a lack of funds to contend with, the Democrats made a very strong fight, and especially in the cities, their opposition was not to be despised. Candidate Frank did good work on the stump, and while the speakers generally from outside of the state were not orators of great fame their work was productive of some results. In the last two weeks, the Gold Democrats took a hand in the struggle, and several of their leaders addressed building, $250,000. large audiences in the cities, but the returns indicate that 'he principal effect of their participation in the campaign would get out a tremendous vote, but it was to strengthen the Republican ranks. When you're buying, think about quality as well as price. Remember that the words "Axminster," 'Wilton," "Brussels," etc., can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Remember, too, that our stock is far larger than that of any other Boston house, and that as nobody can possibly buy to better advantage than we can, it is reasonable to suppose that our ability to name very low selling figures is also unsurpassed. No-License Conference

It has been some years since so much interest has been manifested in a nolicense conference as that held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms last evening. Every section of the city except Houghs Neck was represented. Several of the pastors and representatives of many of the churches were present. In the absence of Mr. King, the chairman, Rev. Robert Westly Peach, of the Presbyterian church was called to the chair. Mr. Frank Foxcroft, of the Boston Journal was introduced and for an hour described the plan of the campaign conducted annually in Cambridge, replying to innumerable Ryder. questions as to details. His remarks revealed the fact that Cambridge is away ahead of Quincy in tringing the real issue Davenport.

before the people every year. The work is carried on by two separate organizations, one composed of ministers and the other, a thoroughly organized citi zens' committee made up of business men, including all shades of religious belief and all organizations interested in temperance. Every two years a thorough canvass is made and a census taken of the entire city

> The fact is kept prominently before the people that from a business stand point the city cannot afford to allow the saloons; hat real estate always increases in value when there are no saloons and vice versa. A shrewd real estate dealer never adverises that a city has license if he wants to sell property, but if there is no license he makes the fact prominent.

At the close of Mr. Foxcroft's very interesting remarks Mr. Peach, on behalf of those present thanked him for the many valuable suggestions offered.

It was voted that each church and temperance organization in the city be requested to appoint a committee of three to meet Monday evening Sept. 28. This provisional committee will then appoint a working committee to carry on the campaign during the present year.

Councilman Sprague said if this is a question of bluff, we must take the same course, for the Electric Light company cannot get along without the city, or the city without lights; and if we can carry the bluff far enough we may get it.

Councilman Bryant said the Electric Light company did not want to make extensions unless they got a five years' con tract. Inflammatory Rheumatism:

Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

Gentlemen: Twenty-three years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After useing two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

The Monte Tabor Tragedy.

Provincetown, Mass., Sept. 15.-It is considered so suspicious that both the captain and chief officer of the wrecked Italian bark Monte Tabor should have committed suicide that many think she was deliberately beached, to hide a grave crime. Three bodies have been found and brought into town, but Medical Examiner Moore finds no indications of murder, and thinks it more likely suicide, more particularly on the part of the captain, who probably took his life to atone in a measure for the disgrace of losing his vessel. Sheriff Whitcomb, at the request of the Italian consul, will hold the rescued seamen until the arrival of the United States officers from Boston. The sailors, not being able to converse in English, it has thus far been impossible to get at the bottom facts in the case. The story which the sailors tell is to the effect that the captain and mate killed themselves as soon as the vessel struck.

We looked for a large majority in Maine, but hardly expected it to equal the plurality given in 1894, when so many Democrats refused to vote; but it has exceeded that plurallity by about 30 per cent, and no one can for a moment doubt that this vote in Maine indicates the sentiment of the great northwestern states. States where there are large manufacturing and agricultulal interests, the states where people read and have intelligent voting populations, will, in my opinion, join the procession and follow the lead set by Vermont and Maine.

THE PROSPECTS are now good for an early commencement of the construction of the sewer system. The only practical route for the deep level sewer between Elm street and the pumping station which will take all the sewage of Quincy Centre, is by an extension of Newcomb street to Greenleaf street. It is preferable also in streets, that there may be no damages and that repairs may be made. Further, when sewers are laid in a street, sewer assessments may be levied. The proposed street would be a public convenience, and would remove some of congestion from the narrow portion of Hancock street, the turnpike to Boston, between City Square Thursday and Friday night. and Greenleaf street. It would also lessen the travel on Coddington, which the City Council has often been asked to widen, making a short route from the northern wards and Boston to Houghs Neck. It is said all the abutters will give the land, and desirable property will be opened up. Fax on avenue and Saville avenue which are mere lanes will become through streets, and property in general in the vicinity enhanced in value to the benefit of the city. The extension should be made.

There is a novelty about the affair that pleases. Eating great juicy steaks, cut steaming hot from the rump of an ox that has been cooked before cut up, is peculiarly satisfactory to a hungry man. For several years that popular parish priest, Father Cummins, has given Bostonians an opportunity to test the merits of a barbecue, and thousands annually join in the festivities. It takes an artist to do the thing properly and this man Allen is an artist.

To a little knot of us information seekers, he described his methods, and I venture to say that of the thousands present we were the only ones who had an idea how the great Texas steer, Committee meeting at the Hospital weighing 1400 pounds, was prepared for the table. To make his story brief, it was as follows: The ox is first split in the brisket and dressed much after the manner of dressing poultry. When which he uses to prepare his feast here.

A Threatened Disgrace.

[Boston Journal, Sept. 13, 1896.] The Republicans of the Tenth Conssional District of Massachusetts have before them a duty and an opportunity. For two years the district has been repreented by Mr. Harrison H. Atwood. He was elected in the face of serious charges affecting his personal honesty. Emigrants Going to Brazil In the Face of Disappointment, if Not Death.

Montreal, Sept. 16 .- Scenes of the greatest excitement took place at the sailing of the steamer Moravia, yesterday. The boat left for Santos, Brazil, with a large number of Canadian immigrants, some of whom were virtually kidnapped, under false pretenses. At first, 1000 were to have sailed, but the publication of documents from the English consul general in Brazil, to the effect that the country where they Were going is entirely unfit for any Englishman to live in, and that if not stricken down by fever, they could hardly earn enough to feed themselves, somewhat changed the complexion of affairs. The civic and Dominion authorities tried to devise some means of preventing the misguided people from going, but it appears they were utterly powerless. Fully 10,000 people watched the boat leave, and some of the parting scenes were heartrending in the extreme. In some cases, wives refused to go after they had entered the ships, and were

Their Fellow-Man.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. GENTLEMEN: I commenced taking P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, last Fall, for Erysipelas. My face was completely covered with the disease; I took a short course of P. P. P., and it soon disappeared. This Spring I became much debilitated and again took another course, and I am now in good condition. I consider P. P. P. one of the best blood preparations on the market, and for those who need a general tonic to build up the system and improve the appetite I consider that it has no equal. Will say, anyone who cares to try P. P. will not be disappointed in its results, and I, therefore, cheerfully recommend it.

ARTHUR WOOD, Springfield, Mo.

Erysipelas and Scrofula cured by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, surely and without fail.

GENTLEMEN: Last June I had a scrofulous sore which broke out on my ankle. It grew rapidly, and soon extended from my ankle to my knee. I got one bottle of your P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, and was agreeably surprised at the result. The entire sore healed at once. I think I have taken almost every medicine recommended for scrofula and catarrh, and your P. P. P. is the best I have ever tried. It cannot be recommended too highly for blood poison, etc.

Yours very truly, W. P. HUNTER.

P. P. P. cures all blood and skin disease, both in men and women. Rheumatism, which makes man's life B hell upon earth, can be relieved at once by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. On Tuesday the writer had a long chat with the nomination for lieutenant governor. During Chairman Lyman's recent absence from Boston, Mr. Plympton was on duty nearly every day. He had a fondness for politics, and had an ambition to achieve and deserve a reputation for political management.

After serving a couple of years on the state committee he was elected chairman of the executive committee last January. In the campaign a year ago he had charge of the rallies and speakers. He accompanied Governor Greenhalge as the representative of the committee in his tour of the state.

Mr. Plympton was a quiet, self-contained young man. He had decided convictions and good political judgment. He was very popular in his party and highly esteemed by his associates in the state committee.

Fall Carpets.

Just a seasonable word or two, to-day.

When you're buying, think about quality as well as price. Remember that the words "Axminster," 'Wilton," "Brussels," etc., can be made to cover a multitude of sins. Remember, too, that our stock is far larger than that of any other Boston house, and that as nobody can possibly buy to better advantage than we can, it is reasonable to suppose that our ability to name very low selling figures is also unsurpassed. We are combining high quality with moderation in price, this Fall, more effectively than ever before.

We ask for your patronage on this basis - the basis of "goods for the money."

up the strength and pulled down the flesh of many people. Their stomachs have become week and flaccid.

This is noticed especially in the case of children whose digestions seem to be paralyzed by the first cold wave. But it is also true of grown people, who are surprised that the cool days of approaching fall make them feel worse, instead of better. They have increased appetites perhaps, but their enervated digestive organs are unable to properly assimilate their food.

The time is coming for cold nights and mornings and warm noons. The clothing that is needed for the proper protection of the vital organs in the early morning becomes burdensome in the middle of the day. It is the season of drafts and sudden changes, which find the system but poorly prepared to stand such strains.

Many deaths will result in this season, but the chief effect will be in the general loss of public health until the people in the community have been enabled to adjust themselves to the new climatic con-

All doctors agree that great care is needed both in food and clothing. Unnecessary exposure should be avoided, and especially should the stomach be given every possible assistance in its important functions. If the stomach is toned up and invigorated, if the liver and kidneys are kept in good working order, the whole machinery of life is given strength and renewed energy. The stomach is the power producer of the human body, and 92 per cent, of all sickness comes from its failure to do its proper work.

Physicians, chemists and practical druggists who have administered and investigated Puritana, the prize-formula of Dr. Dixi Crosby of Dartmouth College, have publicly and privately stated that it is the one safe and effective stomach rem-

A BOSTON LAWYER.

What Mr. John P. Wyman Says of Puritana.

The duties of his law practice make Mr. John P. Wyman an exceedingly busy man, and yet, when asked by an acquaintance what he knew about Puritana, he took time briefly to recount his experience. Mr. Wyman writes:

"I have long been subject to severe headaches and to other symptoms which seemed to indicate a nervous affection of the stomach. Some weeks ago it occurred to me that there might be virtue in Puritana, which I was informed was the formula of Prof. Dixi Crosby of Darthmouth College. As it gave evidence of being a thoroughly good preparation, and as there was a chance that it might bring me the relief which I earnestly desired, I tried it to the extent of several bottles. "I am not enough of a medical man technically to diagnose my own case, or absolutely to measure the benefit derived from the use of Puritana, but I know, as a fact, that after I had been using Puritana, I had a better appetite, a better night's sleep, and, practically, freedom from headaches, which had previously caused me much suffering.

"The result is that I feel sure the credit can fairly be given to Puritana, and, while I am not licensed to prescribe any medicine, I am willing, on the basis of my own experience, to express the opinion that Puritana is an important remedy for troubles of the stomach and nerves."

Washington, Sept. 18 .- John W. Ross, formerly of Illinois, but for some years one of the three commissioners of the District of Columbia, yesterday wrote a letter to the chairman of the local committee to arrange for Bryan's reception, declining to serve as one of the vice presidents at the meeting. He said that if he were merely invited to show Bryan respect as a man, he would feel honored in participating, but that the terms of the invitation contemplate endorsement of the Chicago ticket and platform, and that he finds himself unable to do this. Mr. Ross pays high tribute to Mr. Bryan's worth as a man, and defends his own Democracy, but says: "I cannot avoid the conclusion that with all of Mr. Bryan's strength of ability he would, if elected, be dominated by the objectionable doctrines of the Chicago platform and that promulgated by Populists at be subserved by his election."

Gentlemen:—Last spring I was greatly troubled with rheumatism in my leg and was not able to do any work for four months. After using several other so called sure cures, I tried Muscle Oil, and after using five bottles I was able to work every day and now feel as well as ever.

The windows and doors were all burnt out and the fire came through the roof and sides in several places. The building is valued at about $2000 with a damage of from $700 to $1000.

Boston, Sept. 19.-There was a bad accident in that portion of the subway directly in front of the entrance to King's chapel this morning. The timbers supporting the core collapsed. One of the workmen was apparently seriously injured and two others bul slightly At the time the accident happened a number of men were at work at the bottom of the opening, when, without the slightest warning, the core gave way, and three of the men were caught by the failing timbers. At the same time, the planking in the center of the street gradually sunk. A general alarm was sounded by the section boss, and all the men were ordered from the trench. It was impossible to learn how serious the results were attending the collapse. A hasty rollcall had in the meantime been made, and all the men being accounted for, steps were instituted to ascertain the extent of the disaster, and the foreman was heard to say to one of the bosses: "I think it is the worst yet; the center appears to be all gone; keep that street closed.'

Maine's Latest Figures.

Bangor, Me., Sept. 19.—Official figures have been received here from the sec retary of state of the congressional vote in the four districts of the state. The figures are practically complete, only a few small towns being missing. The total vote for the Republican candidates for representatives to congress is $3,809, and for the Democratic candidates 34,-318. This gives a Republican plurality in the state of 49,491. The pluralities in detail are as follows: First district, Reed's plurality, 10,539; Second district, Dingley's, 13,916; Third district, Milliken's, 12,802; Fourth district, Boutelle's, 12,234. These are the largest pluralities ever received by any Republican candidate for congress or governor in any district, even exceeding those of 1894, when it was supposed that the highest mark possible had been reached.

Hardly Breathe at Night-One Nostril Closed for Ten Years. Mr. A. M. Ramsey, of De Leon, Texas, was a sufferer from Catarrh in its worst form. Truly, his description of his sufferings seem little short of marvelous. Instead of seeking his couch, glad for the night's coming, he went to E. Bagley, pastor. Service at 10.45 A. M. long, weary, wakeful night and a struggle to breathe was before him.

Messrs. Lifeman Bros., Savannah, Ga.,
Genrs: I have used nearly four bottles of P. P. P. I was afflicted from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. Your P. P. P. has cured my difficulty of breathing, smothering, palpitation of the heart, and has relieved me of all pain. One nostril was closed for ten years, but now I can breathe through it readily.

I have not slept on either side for two years; in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I I have not siept on either side for two vens, in fact, I dreaded to see night come. Now I sleep soundly in any position all night.

I am so years old, but expect soon to be able to take hold of the plow handles. I feel glad that I was lucky enough to get P. P. P., and I heartily recommend it to my friends and the public generally.

Pastor Porter Declares That He Will See That Justice Is Done.

Says That Enemies Have Destroyed His Reputation.

May Have Made Mistakes, but It Was None of the P. blic's Business.

Pawtucket, R. I., Sept. 21.-During services yesterday, Rev. J. L. Porter, rector of Trinity church, spoke of the demand for his resignation. He said, in substance: "The unfortunate occurrences of the past week have been brought about by falsehood and treachery. They are not only an injury to me, but to the church and Christianity. I know I have the sinere sympathy of every man who has a spark of manhood in him in this greatest wrong that could be inflicted upon any man. My reputation has suffered not done in this city, but all over New England, as every paper copied the mon strous piece of slander. My reputation has been destroyed. My words are inadequate to express my contempt. I ask not pity from these who have brought this scandal upon me, but I promise you, my Christians, that I will see justice

"No true worker in the church would have assisted in doing this thing, which an only destroy the good name of the church. Any man is liable to make mistakes, and even though I may have don so, it is merely a personal matter, and nothing which concerns the public. I am, however, willing that the world should know. Some have assisted in this, who, if their lives were known, would be a mark for the finger of scorn.

"I trust that during the remainder of my stay among you, we may work to gether, in order that the church work may not suffer. I claim that the church has not suffered by my coming, but is today in better condition than when I assumed charge. If not, those who have so declared in public meetings hav spoken falsehoods.

A Goodly Sum Will be Netted to Hospital by Festival.

The attendance Saturday at the Hospital festival at Merry Mount park was by far the largest of any of the three, it being estimated that there must have been fully 5000 people on the grounds during the afternoon, the stormy weather of the morning seemingly having in no way decreased the attendance.

Another large crowd was expected in the evening, but the hard rain kept hundreds away. Yet there was a large number present inside the tents in spite of the storm and the fact that at times it was very wet, the tent leaking so badly that it became necessary to hoist umbrellas to keep the water off. This made it very unpleasant for the ladies who were attending the tables but they bravely stuck to their posts and were enabled to dispose of much of the wares that remained unsold.

Much of the perishable goods and other articles that would have been ruined by water were placed beneath one of the tents a large molasses hogshead which had been $500 Lenox cup. of Co. Mr. Albert Keating, chairman of the Committee on Refreshments, was on duty every day and was kept busy directing matters, and through his efforts everything in the refreshment line went along without a hitch.

The entertainment furnished for Saturday afternoon was in charge of Chief Engineer Peter J. Williams, and it consisted of an old fashioned hand fire engine contest and it proved a drawing card. With such a large crowd it might be expected there would be some disturbing ele ment, but beyond a few skirmishes between the militia and some person who tried to pass the line without, paying there was no trouble and in these cases it was more of a misunderstanding than anything else. had to be abandoned on account of the In one case a man who claimed to be a member of Hose 3 attempted to come inside of the lines at the rear of the grounds. but the soldier on duty refused to let him pass and as the fellow was determined the guard placed his bayonet against the man's breast and drove him back. Then the fellow threatened to draw his revolver, but this in no way frightened the guard and he held his man there until a squad arrived from headquarters and settled the affair. The man said he simply went outside and Timothy Reed, the secretary of the was returning when the guard stopped

It is a novelty to see a fine horse driven almost destitute of harness. Mr. Tirreli's hitch these days consists of a light saddle by which the horse is attached to the wagon. A bridle, reins and overdraw check rein completed the harness. There were no traces, breeching, girth, blinders, martingale or any thing to impede the free motions of the animal. Leaving off the check which is a matter of diverse opinion, "Dumb Animals" would give a prize to this team.

Association Meddled With Politics.

Tillman Has Great Faith In the Election of Bryan.

Bath, Me., Sept. 22.-Hon. Arthur Sewall is no longer president of the American Merchant Marine association, his resignation being now in the hands of the secretary of that organization. Mr. Sewall states that the objects of the association were supposed to be nonpartisan; that it was with this understanding that many of the foremost shipoing concerns joined it: that it was with this understanding that he was induced to accept the presidency of that body, and that as the body is now being used for political purposes, he cannot longer hold his position. His letter speaks for Bath. Sept. 19, 1896. A. R. Smith, Secretary, New York City—Dear Sir: Enclosed find my resignation as president and member of the American Merchant Marine association to take effect on receipt. The origin of this asociation and its purpose was to advocate, and by all proper methods promote, the restoration of the merchant marine of this country. It was distinctly understood that the organiza- shadowed by a Scotland Yard detective tion was to be free from politics and en tirely non-partisan in its character. 1 went to Italy, Belgium and France, and have always regarded it as a national question, and believed that both the great parties, after proper investiga-tion, would be equally interested to effect the legislation that would tend to restore to our nation its supremacy upon the ocean.

Your recent methods, introducing poli-The machinery that runs this jewelry tics and partisanship in the workings of your office, do not meet my approval, and I cannot longer be associated with an organization conducted by such methods. I enclose clipping from our local paper, which illustrates the objectionable methods of your management which you have recently introduced without conferring with me. I especially refer to the closing remarks in your letter, which I assume, knowing that you know your duties and powers as secretary of this organization, that you did not put out without authority, either formal or in-formal, from your executive committee

Yours truly,

Arthur Sewall, candidate for vice resident, is president of the association. he circulars reached Mr. Sewall, and esterday Mr. Smith received a letter rom the vice presidential candidate. When questioned, concerning the letter, Mr. Smith said: "I cannot tell what that letter contained. Mr. Sewall will have to give it out himself if he wishes to have it published. As to the circulars, I sent them out without considering Mr. Sewall's position as a candidate. The Republican party, in its platform, offered to give us what Mr. Sewall and our association had been demanding for years, while the Democrats ignored us; so I thought that we ought to support the party that supports us, and I sent out the circulars. I suppose it was indiscreet, but there was nothing else to do. I know that Mr. Sewall heartily favors the shipping plank in the Republican platform, but his position is embarrassing under the circumstances. He

How Tillman Thinks Supreme Court Judges Should Be Treated.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22.-At an open air meeting of Democrats in this city last night, Senator Tillman made one of his characteristic speeches to an audience of about 2000 persons. He denounced the claims made by the advocates of a gold standard, and criticized the administration of President Cleveland, as to the bond issue. Referring to the supreme court, the speaker said: "If McKinley is defeated the Democratic party will take the rascally judges by the throats and teach them that there is yet liberty in this land."

When asked if he thought Pennsy! vania, where he has been speaking would vote for Bryan, he replied: "The trouble with the state is that Wright and Singerly and the rest of the Philadelphia gold crowd held on to the machine, and broke all the bogs they could. The new chairman is trying to get together a working force, and I believe has about effected a reorganization. am not able to tell what the result wil be. CRAFTY RUSSIA

London, Sept. 22 .- The Times has a dispatch from Sebastopol, which declares sentiment in favor of renewed ocean that a portion of the Russian Black sea gunboats and several torpedo boats, is cruising off Otchakoff under orders on receipt of a telegram from the Russian ambassador at Constantinople to joi the admiral leaving here with the re voters to support McKinley and Hobart, the Bosphorus. The whole fleet has been because the Republican platform favors placed on a war footing, and has em barked three battalions of infantry an troops. The south of Africa has als been placed on a war footing.

The Times expresses the belief that Russia and Japan have agreed to a join protectorate in Korea, Russia, virtuall taking the position there that China held before the war. The King of Korea w quit the Russian legation, where he ha been since the assassination of the pro-Japanese ministers, and will return in triumph to the palace. This arrange ment, The Times asserts, will be carrie out simultaneously with Japan's evacua tion of Korea. The Times editorially re gards the foregoing arrangement as great diplomatic victory for Russia, who says The Times, thereby obtains a vir tual ascendency in Korean affairs, leav ing Japan only a nominal share in the control, with the bare satisfaction o saving appearances and of gaining tim for a final solution in the future. Japan has missed one of the main objects of her ambition by impatience, and by an incapacity to deal with the situation.

The Smelting Season.

The Boston Correspondent of the Old Colony Memorial says: "The smelting season is on again; and the Dorchester and Quincy Bay waters are made animate with the boats of the fishers, anchored just off the shores at the "right time of the tides," and the long lines of rod-handlers upon the wharves and shore constructions. There is little of the excitement and exaltation attendant upon trout fishing connected with the still angling for smelts in quiet waters; but the average citizen appears to rate the pursuit of the last named as "good enough sport" for ordinary mortals. The fish in these waters are exceptionally large and fine, and bring readily twenty cents per dozen in the local markets. Some of the catches are remarkably large for hook and line products."

A Public Hearing on the Widening of Sea Street.

Old Fire Station Considered for Police Station.

Another long and interesting meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening, several important matters coming up, including the sewer appropriation, the Sea street widening, the electric street lighting contract, new police station, all of which is eported below.

The absent members were Councilmer Lamb, Murray and Sprague.

Under the order of unfinished business the appointment of election officers was confirmed. Petitions

Petitions were received from J. N. Page, Jr., and Benjamin Kingsley for billiard and pool table licenses and from L. Grossman for license to buy and sell second hand articles. Referred. A petition was received from residents of Wollaston that Taylor street from Beale to Brooks street be raised and the surface water taken care of. Referred.

Report of Committees. The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Quincy & Boston street railway a temporary location for two turnouts on Hancock street. Ordered to second plied a certain work for a certain sum.

The amendment was adopted and the order passed to be ordained under suspension of the rules. The Committee on Finance reported slight amendment to order appropriating $68,000 for the sewer. Councilman Moxon asked why the ongest time allowed for payment was not taken.

ducted the case for the petitioners. In opening he said the street was but 30 feet wide, and electric cars took most of the street. The road bed was in good condition this year but too narrow. There were now 300 to 400 cottages at Houghs Neck, the valuation was nearly three-quarters of a million, and from $10,000 to $12,000 was paid in taxes. Houghs Neck was a pretty good cow in Quincy's barn. It was no more than fair and right we should receive some return. A good street will be of benefit to Quincy as well as Houghs Neck. It was a much travelled street, especially on Sunday. It had been said that the water extension did not pay, but it was early to judge yet as the water had been in but a year. There were about 100 takers who paid $6.50 annually for water a few months. We were thankful for the

would be no land damages.

Others to speak in favor of the widening were: T. Downey, Jr., J. J. Day, S. D. Squires, J. Milton, William Cavanagh, F. F. Green and John Cavanagh.

The hearing closed at 8.50 and the petition was recommitted.

Councilman Rideout offered an order hat the Committee on Public Buildings consider the expediency of remodelling the old Fire station on School street for a Police station and report at next meeting as to what, in their judgment, is for the best interest of the city. Adopted.

Councilman Anderson offered a resoution that whereas the Council had, last June, passed an order authorizing the Mayor to execute a three years' contract with the Electric Light Company, and, whereas, the company refuse to enter a contract for three years that the Mayor be Brief Locals a Speciality and Pub authorized to execute a contract for a period in addition to the three years, to erminate May 1, 1901.

The chair refused to entertain the order, as it was the same subject matter that had already been acted upon. Councilman Anderson appealed from the ruling of the chair. President Bryant said this was the same subject matter and it could not be brought up again in this council.

Councilman Moxon was sorry to disagree. There was no question in his mind but the change made it possible to entertain such a motion. There was a question whether or not the order did not pass at the last meeting; as to whether it required twelve

Councilman Bryant moved that the whole matter be indefinitely postponed. Councilman Claffin thought it simply a question to whom it should be referred. 40 00 DEATH OF CALAIS BEY Recalls His Romantic Marriage to the Widow of P. T. Barnum.

Friends Surmise That the Alliance Was Unhappy.

a Brief Honeymoon.

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 23.-The following cablegram was received yesterday morning by B. Fish, cousin of Mrs. "Hotel Bristol, Constantinople-Calais Bey died yesterday morning. Empalmed; waiting for madame." Mrs. Calais Bey, formerly Barnum, Constantinople on account of her husband's serious sickness.

he original meeting between Mrs. P . Barnum and Demetrius Calais Bey When P. T. Barnum died he left an estate calued at $20,000,000. He gave to Mrs. Barnum in his will $100,000 in cash and a life annuity of $40,000. She was made residuary legatee of the large estate and there was no provision in the will cutting off any part of her income in case she should marry again. Beside the annuity she has considerable property, which makes her income about 50,000 a year. Mr. Barnum also gavher "Marino," her elegant residence ir Bridgeport, which she endeavored to sell at the time of her marriage.

Soon after Mr. Barnum's death, Mrs. Barnum showed a disliking for her former home of happiness, and occasionally visited her birthplace in England the Eastern Hemisphere. With her in these journeys ways took some Bridgeport young lady o whom she acted as chaperone. It vas on one of these journeys, according o report, that she was climbing the Great Pyramid with the assistance of Parsons, last night, took under advise Arab guides, when one of them slipped and fell. Mrs. Barnum reeled back- for the trial of Dr. Joseph C. Moore, on Purifier. It gives vigor and vitality. ward and toppled over to what seemed Oct. 12. The trial would be on one of ertain death. But a stranger, who was toiling up the Pyramid 10 yards below. caught the endangered lady in his arms. It proved to be the bey. From that time on a friendship existed between them, but nothing was thought of it. It was afterward found out that her ew friend was a Greek gentleman, who, it was reported, had extensive olive plantations on the Island of Mitylene, in the Grecian Archipelago. After Mrs. Barnum's return to America the bey called upon her at her stant death. He was only slightly Bridgeport home, but in so informal a bruised. manner that none of her most intimate friends suspected that she and the bey vere more than friends.

Great was the surprise, therefore, of her Bridgeport acquaintances when it was announced that on Aug. 8, 1895, a very quiet wedding had taken place in Loss, $2000. New York, at the Greek church. Previously there was a civil ceremony performed by an alderman in the office of Attorney Ingersoll. The day before an ante-nuptial agreement had been executed by Judge Ingersoll of New Haven, by which Mrs. Barnum reserved her legal rights to her own estate.

So quietly had the courtship been carried on and the plans arranged that even Mrs. Barnum's confidential agent, Benjamin J. Fish, her own cousin, knew nothing of what was in anticipation until he received a telegram to come to New York and attend the ceremony

In view of the fact that the bey spoke very little English, the conversation beween the two being conducted in French, and that his methods were not after the English or American ideal, Mrs. Barnum's friends in Bridgeport shook their heads dubiously and prophesied that the alliance would not be a happy one

The wedding was a grand and unique one. Mrs. Barnum was very quiet about it, however, and acted very stangely to her friends. Soon after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Calais sailed for Paris, fron which place they intended to travel through the continent, and then to Mr. Cailas' native place, Polihnito, on the Island of Mitylene, where they intended establishing their permanent home. Before going Mrs. Calais made known her intentions of never returning to this country. Her statement was substantiated by the fact that she had forwarded all her valuable personal property, and advertised the "Marina," her beautiful Bridgeport residence, for sale. ountry disquieting rumors-that is disquieting to the many friends of Mrs. Henry White. Calais-had for some time reached here from the far off Island of Mitylene which seem to show that all was not as happy in the Aegeon sea as it might be. The rumors were to the effect that Mrs. Barnum's second marnage had not met all of her anticipations, and while Morris Chairs, hair cushions there may be no solid foundation for the s'500 kind for $10.00, at GUY'S COL ISEUM, Quincy. the report, it was not denied that Mrs Calais intended returning to this coun try, which she soon did do, and remained here until she received the cablegram, last Wednesday, telling of her husband's sickness. It was thought by many that the marriage was an unhappy one.

HANCOCK STREET.

Shall It be Widened and Rebuilt at an Early Date?

Board of Trade will be held tonight, at which time the subject of widening Hancock street will come up for discussion.

That something should be done to improve the condition of this street must readily be apparent to any one who has occasion to drive over it in a carriage or to ride over it on a wheel. It is the main thoroughfare from Boston to Quincy and beyond, and the travel over it is enormous. As it is today it is unsafe in some places to drive over it in a light carriage, especially at night. It is full of holes and in other places large rocks are protruding through he surface. In dry weather one can get along without much trouble but when we have hard rains like those of a week ago it is simply wretched.

The street railway have petitioned the City Council for a location for a double track in the centre of the street between City Square and Neponset bridge, and if this is granted a larger part of the street will be paved. The new sewer will also be put in at an early date and when the work of these improvements is in progress the question is, would it not be well for the city to undertake the entire rebuilding of this street which must come before long. While we are about it why not widen the street and make it a street that will supply the wants of our city for years to come.

There is no question but what the street can be widened now cheaper than it can be at any future time, for real estate is advancing rapidly and the longer this work which must come is delayed the more

An invitation is extended to the public to attend tonight's meeting and it is hoped there will be a large attendance.

Inflammatory Rheumatism:

Office of J. P. Greer, County Judge, J. Green Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

Gener Cove Springs, Clay Co., Fla.

Gentlemen: Twenty-three Years ago I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I was attended by the most eminent physician in the land. I visited the great Saratoga Springs, N. Y., the noted Hot Springs of Arkansas, and many other watering places, always consulting with the local physicians for directions, and finally came to Florida, ten years ago. About two years ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism, was confined to my room for twelve weeks, and during that time was induced to try P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, knowing that each ingredient was good for impurities of the blood. After useing two small bottles I was relieved. At four different times since I have had slight attacks and each time I have taken two small bottles of P. P. P., and have been relieved, and I consider P. P. P. the best medicine of its kind.

Respectfully, J. F. GREER.

Just a seasonable word or two, to-day.

When you're buying, think about quality as well as price. Remember that the words "Axminster," 'Wilton," "Brussels," etc., can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Remember, too, that our stock is far larger than that of any other Boston house, and that as nobody can possibly buy to better advantage than we can, it is reasonable to suppose that our ability to name very low selling figures is also unsurpassed. We are combining high quality with moderation in price, this Fall, more effectively than ever before.

up the strength and pulled down the flesh of many people. Their stomachs have become week and flaccid.

This is noticed especially in the case of children whose digestions seem to be paralyzed by the first cold wave. But it is also true of grown people, who are surprised that the cool days of approaching fall make them feel worse, instead of better. They have increased appetites perhaps, but their enervated digestive organs are unable to properly assimilate

The time is coming for cold nights and mornings and warm noons. The clothing that is needed for the proper protection of the vital organs in the early morning becomes burdensome in the middle of the day. It is the season of drafts and sudden changes, which find the system but poorly prepared to stand such strains.

Many deaths will result in this season, but the chief effect will be in the general loss of public health until the people in the community have been enabled to adjust themselves to the new climatic con-

All doctors agree that great care is needed both in food and clothing. Unnecessary exposure should be avoided, and especially should the stomach be given every possible assistance in its important functions. If the stomach is toned up and invigorated, if the liver and kidneys are kept in good working order, the whole machinery of life is given strength and renewed energy. The stomach is the power producer of the human body, and 92 per cent. of all sickness comes from its failure to do its proper work.

Physicians, chemists and practical druggists who have administered and investigated Puritana, the prize-formula of Dr. Dixi Crosby of Dartmouth College, have publicly and privately stated that it is the one safe and effective stomach rem-

A BOSTON LAWYER.

What Mr. John P. Wyman Says of

Puritana The duties of his law practice make Mr. John P. Wyman an exceedingly busy man, and yet, when asked by an acquaintance what he knew about Puritana, he took time briefly to recount his experience. Mr. Wyman writes:

"I have long been subject to severe headaches and to other symptoms which seemed to indicate a nervous affection of the stomach. Some weeks ago it occurred to me that there might be virtue in Puritana, which I was informed was the formula of Prof. Dixi Crosby of Darthmouth College. As it gave evidence of being a thoroughly good preparation, and as there was a chance that it might bring me the relief which I earnestly desired, I tried it to the extent of several bottles.

"I am not enough of a medical man technically to diagnose my own case, or absolutely to measure the benefit derived from the use of Puritana, but I know, as a fact, that after I had been using Puritana, I had a better appetite, a better night's sleep, and, practically, freedom from headaches, which had previously caused me much suffering.

"The result is that I feel sure the credit can fairly be given to Puritana, and, while I am not licensed to prescribe any medicine, I am willing, on the basis of my own experience, to express the opinion that Puritana is an important remedy for troubles of the stomach and nerves."

A FARMER GOT EVEN.

-William Young in Century.

There are four men in Chicago who will never forget Silas Tatman's visit to the city. It will be many days before those same men will be able to show up at the depots again to prey on the confidence of rural strangers.

When Silas came to town, he came with the avowed intention of revenging himself on a smooth spoken young man who had met him on a former visit and had relieved him of a carpetsack containing the visitor's money and return ticket He did not expect to encounter the same fellow, but made up his mind to administer to the first man who claimed to know him the warmest reception the scoundrel had ever met with.

Tatman came in from Bunkum. Bunkum is not on the map, and one could go to the place with a repeating rifle and shoot all the inhabitants without reloading. But, small as it is, it can boast of a citizen who outwitted four of the cleverest "con" men in Chicago.

Bunkum is also renowned for its large hornets' nests and the warlike and "grouchy" dispositions of their occupants. In Tatman's hog lot hung one of these nests from a limb of a locust tree. It was a gigantic specimen and the terror of the neighborhood.

The morning Silas left for Chicago he went out in the hog lot very early, before the hornets were astir. He took with him an old green carpetbag, and door behind him. this he opened and slipped carefully around the oblong nest, closing the clasp quickly without losing a hornet. When he took the train later in the day, he smiled with delight as he thought of the harrowing scene that would take place when the carpetbag was opened.

When Silas arrived at the depot, instead of going to the hotel he sat down in the smoking room and waited. His mission was similar to that of the confidence man. He was in quest of a stranger who would cultivate his acquaintance only to rob him of his hornets and regret it to his dying day. Occasionally Farmer Tatman would look down at his carpetbag. As he did so he shook with

The Bunkum farmer had not been seated five minutes when he was approached by a fellow with a sharp, inquisitive nose and a checked suit. "Ah, ha!" thought Tatman, as the stranger extended his hard. "I've got you." "I believe I know you," said the sharp nosed individual. "Let me see, you are from''-

"Bunkum," replied Tatman. "To be sure-Bunkum. And your name is"-"Tatman." "Why, of course. How are you, Mr.

Tatman?' "Tolerable." And Mr. Tatman looked down at his hornets and chuckled.

"My name's Cunningham," went en the stranger, grasping one of Silas' hands in both his own. "You remember I was visiting Bunkum a few years ago with Banker-a-oh, I never can remember names. You know who I mean, though. He's the principal banker in your town."

There never was a banker within 20 miles of Bunkum, but Farmer Tatman was playing a hand, so he said: "Know 'im? Waal, I should say I do. You mean old Squire Jones?"

"Jones, of course. Ha, ha, ha! Strange I couldn't remember the name.'

"Ha, ha, ha! 'Twas kinder funny.' And Silas fairly danced with joy. reckon thar ain't a nice quiet little place somewhere where a feller can talk with a friend what he ain't seen for nigh on to two year." This was just what Cunningham wanted.

"Oh, yes," said he in his softest tone. "I know just the place. It's not over a block from here.

"Then I reckon we might as well go if you're sure it's safe walking through the streets with as much money as I've got in this here satchel."

At the word money Silas detected an expression of eagerness and pleasure on the scoundrel's face, and the fellow's fingers seemed to itch as the two walked along.

"Ain't you afraid," said he, "of being robbed?"

'Waal, you just bet your sweet life the fellow who opens old Silas Tatman's valise will be sorry." And the Bunkum farmer smiled inwardly. Here Cunningham turned on a little side street, leading his friend by the arm. About half way down the block they turned into a dark and dingy looking saloon. Cunningham spoke familtarly to the barkeeper, who directed them to a wineroom in the back of the place. The two sat down at the table and were joined presently by three other men. One of them was a fat man, who tried to get Tatman to play cards

"just for fun." Another one of the men wore a white vest and a polka dot necktie. He did all the talking, and after Cunningham had whispered a few words in the fellow's ear he could hardly keep his eyes off the carpetbag. He was introduced to Tatman as Thomas W. Bloomfield, the board of trade man.

"It seems, Mr. Tatman," said Bloom-

"You bet I have got a lot of money in that ere old carpetbag. I was kinder thinkin of speculatin with it." "Perhaps you would like to have me invest it in wheat. I think you could make a big stake." "I'm kinder 'fraid of losin it."

"Oh, not at all; not if it's well invested. People only lose their money through carelessness. But of course some one has to lose money to keep the stuff properly in circulation."

"Waal, I hain't got much money to lose, and I'm feared if I was to open that ere bag that mine would get to circulatin, and you bet it would circulate mighty dern fast."

"Well, if you did lose it, it would stick to some one's fingers."

"You bet your blame life she would, and she'd stick purty gol derned fast.' "So you don't want me to invest it for you?' "I'm a little bit scary bout puttin it in wheat. "No risk whatever," said Bloomfield. Why, I tell you, Mr. Tatman, a good speculator can pick money off the trees here in Chicago.' Bloomfield's expression tickled Tat-man. He laughed uproariously and then said "You can pick it off the trees in Bunkum, too, but you can't keep it long, 'cause it circulates too dern fast.'' By this time the men were growing impatient, and Tatman noticed that they looked more frequently and longer at the carpetbag. He thought it about time to take his revenge, so he said:

"Waal, gentlemen, I reckon I'd better be a-goin, and I'd like to leave that 'ere money with you, so as it'll be safe while I hunt up a stoppin place."

The men were perfectly willing to accommodate Farmer Tatman. They assured him that the carpetbag and its contents would be perfectly safe and that they would be willing to wait until he came back.

"Much obliged, gentlemen." And Tatman arose. "'Tisn't very often that a feller meets such kind friends as you are in a strange city, and it's kinder soothin ter know that a fellow's leavin his money with honest people. I reckon I'll be back in about an hour." And Tatman once more thanked his friends as he passed out of the room, closing the Tatman did not leave the saloon, as the men expected. By a clever dodge he managed to slip the key of the door in his pocket before he left the room. He remained on the outside long enough to silently turn the bolt in the lock, after which he slipped into the adjoining room. He did not wait long before he heard one of the men say:

"Well, that was the easiest snap I ever saw." Silas recognized the voice as that of Cunningham. Then Bloomfield

The Bunkum farmer seized the opportunity to slip out of the saloon, and as he was passing into the street he heard the door crash in as one of the men on the inside dealt it a blow with a chair. Over his shoulder he saw a stream of hornets sail after the bartender.

Twenty minutes later, from his retreat in the alley across the street, Tatman saw his five friends limping out of the saloon to the ambulance which had been called and which had backed up to the curbstone. - Chicago Inter Ocean.

NEURALGIA, CATARRH AND RHEUMA-TISM COMPLETELY CURED.

George Briggs, of Moore, Oklahoma, writes that P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, cured him of catarrh, facial · neuralgia and rheumatism, after three years of intense suffering. The pain lay in his cheek bone and temple, down the right side of his face, along his upper lip, and from the slightest touch he suffered agonies for weeks at a time. Could only open his mouth wide enough to admit a teaspoon, and any acid in his food would put him in torture. He had a consultation of the best physicians in Texas, but all to no purpose.

CAPTURED THE HALL.

Williams Forces Execute a Coup 'D'Etat Upon Their Opponents.

Police Appealed to but Declined to Interfere.

Gold Men on the Outside and an Exciting Time Is Anticipated.

Boston, Sept. 26 .- One of the most remarkable political incident in the history of Massachusetts, an incident which has a counterpart somewhat in the famous Butler coup d'état at Worcester a decade or so ago, was enacted in Music hall last night and this morning. Acting under the direct and positive advice of George F. Williams, his friends seized the hall and held possession of it after the adjournment of the rally at which Candidate Bryan had spoken.

Their purpose, as openly announced, is to remain in possession of the hall until the convention assembles, and this decision was the result of the charge being made by Mr. Williams that the state committee leaders intended to pack the hall in the interest of the men opposed to the Chicago platform and its candi-

It was decided by the Bryan-Sewall-Williams men that they should rule the convention, they claiming that they have a majority of the elected delegates, and they intend to name James H. Mellen for temporary chairman, John L. Rice of Worcester for permanent chairman, and to name all the committees. All night a large force of delegates, led by Representative James H. Mellen, Linwood J. Pratt, Timothy W. Coakley and Joseph A. Dennison, held the hall against all comers, and in the face of threats of arrest from the managers of the hall.

The managers of the hall stormed, appealed and threatened, but a large force of Williams delegates held the hall, defied the janitor to turn out the lights, and made the time pass merrily with antiwere appealed to, but refused to inter- day.

Mr. Williams personally instigated this proceeding. During the Bryan meeting in the evening, addressing himself to the delegates present, he declared that by fraud the state committee was determined to pack the convention with men who had no right there, keep out the real delegates from the country districts, and so control the temporary or-

He then called upon all delegates loval to him to remain all night in the hall. He urged them to hold on to it until 11 clock, so that false delegates could not get in. He agreed to pay for the breakfast of He was taken at his word. The delegates rose to their feet and cheered to the

When the meeting closed they stuck to their seats. They were requested to leave by the manager. They refused. The janitor threatened to turn out the lights. He was told to go ahead, but that not a nan would budge. A meeting was organized, and Lawyer Frank P. Curran of Woburn was elected chairman. That explains why in the wee small hours of the morning the big hall resounded with oratory and cheers. Man after man attacked the state committee. and called on the loyal delegates to hold on and fight the fight out to a finish.

The police, who were stationed in the hall, and remained after the Bryan meeting, declined to oust the Williams men. Fearing that they might change their minds, Joseph A. Dennison, secretary of the Bryan-Williams-Sewail club, rushed over to police headquarters. He disovered there Deputy Superintendent Hanscom and Captain Gaskin in conference with Thomas A. Mullen, Mayor Quincy's secretary; John H. Sullivan nd John H. Lee.

A verbal fight ensued, and Dennison von. The police authorities refused to ust the Williams men. The Democratic state committee vesterday held the largest session in the history of the state organization, and there seems to be but little hope that definite results will be reached before the convention assembles. The committee met at 3 o'clock, nearly everyone being present, including the gold standard supporters. The committee debated on the question of admitting contesting delegations from all parts of the state. The real fight came on the question of admitting ward 19 delegates, who were declared elected by the caucus officers, but regarding whose election there is considerable doubt, as a large number of ballots were found defective: The committee sent to the ballot commission for a decision in the matter. After the session began, 16 gold standard members issued the following state-"The undersigned members of ment: the Democratic state central committee hereby state that they will bolt if the approaching state convention shall endorse the nomination and platform of the Chicago convention." The gold standard delegates won one victory through the efforts of S. K. Hamilton, as the Winchester gold standard delegates were seated. On the other hand, the silver delegates from Pepperell were seated over the gold standard.

The Democratic committee adjourned at 2 o'clock this morning, after a session of 11 hours. Chairman Corcoran said that there was no truth in the statement made by the silver men, now in camp in Music hall, that the tickets for the corvention today were purposely held back until an hour or two before the convention assembles. He said that the committee decided on this action some days ago, and it was only in conformity with what has usually been the custom in former years. The committee, he further stated, would meet again at o'clock, when it is expected that Musi the hall will be cleared, so that the state livered to those who hired it. Just how the hall will he cleared, so that the state committee can take charge of the convention, Chairman Corcoran could not state. All the committees for the convention have been arranged.

Important matters continue to multiply and engross the attention of the city. There is the sewer appropriation, the extension of Newcomb street to Greenleaf, several petitions for the acceptance of streets, the widening of Sea street to Houghs Neck, the contract for electric street lighting, the "boulevarding" of Hancock street, and other business of more

There were good arguments at the City council hearing Monday evening for the Sea street improvement. It is a matter in which residents of all parts of Quincy should be fully as much interested as the temporary residents at the sea-shore, and Houghs Neck people should enlist the help of Quincy people. The estimate of $12,-000 given to the City Council seems rather arge, and ought to be scaled down. Everyone admitted the roadbed to be in good condition, but said the street was too narrow. If abutters will give the land the widening can be made in a satisfactory manner, possibly not first-class, for a reasonable figure.

The Hancock improvement has the backing of the influential gentlemen of the city and is something that must be considered if Quincy is to continue among the progressive cities of the State. There hould be no hasty action, however, as the taxpayers desire that no further large sums of money shall be squandered. Reference to the statement of the city debt by the City Auditor shows that there is still unpaid loans to the amount of $23,000 for the rebuilding of Hancock street, which it s now proposed to rebuild.

The police department has been brought prominently before the public this week by Chief Hayden preferring charges of insubordination against one of the special officers who was given a hearing last evening before the Mayor. Many are of the opinion that this is but a beginning of a Pattern Hats and general overhauling of this department, as far as the special officers are concerned. and if all said can be believed there is room for improvement in some of them. It is even understood that no later than yesterday the Chief read the riot act to one of them at least, and it is hoped that it will have the desired effect.

> The fact that Councilman Rideout has introduced an order into the City Council looking to the use of the old central fire station for a police station is evidence that the City Council realize that this department should have better quarters. If the building in question was situated near City Square it might readily be connected into a police station but to be made into a perfect station where it now is would place it too far from City Hall, unless the Council is prepared to appropriate money for the introduction of a Police signal system, and even then the station should be

A WESTERN TRIP.

Experiences of the Quincy Men in the Mining District.

The Quincy gentlemen who returned from a visit to the mining district of the west tell many interesting stories of their trip. There were nineteen in the party altogether, and they went from Boston to Wyoming by cars and then went a hundred miles from any civilization, into the wild county of the Rocky mountains, where a man's life is but little valued and an argument upon any question such as the silver and gold issues is very likely to end in a hurried funeral of the man who is the slowest in d awing his gun.

In one place where the party stopped there was a man who was termed a terror, and who when in liquor was very apt to shoot anyone who disagreed with him. He had a record of an innumerable number of funerals due to his gun. He was a Special Officer Albert J. And Three Boats in Each Class have Legs for Burkhardt Cups. The third of this series special races of hardt cups was sailed Saturday afternoon. It was thought that this would doubtless wind up the season's races, but the result was such that a sail-off will be necessary in both classes to determine the winner of this year's races. The Clara Lou, Magnolia and Payomet each have a leg in the first class, and the Velma, Locia and Burgess each have a leg in the second class. A reefing southwest breeze greeted the boats Saturday but as every skipper was out for blood wholesale was carried and every chance taken. This proved disastrous for the Clara Lou, for a squal snapped her mast close to the deck, but fortunately did no further damage.

The first class got away at 2 35 the Mag nolia crossing first, closely followed by the The Braintree Observer, Payomet and Clara Lou. The latter boat soon took the lead and was showing the rest of the fleet the way when she met with her accident. This gave the Payomet the lead which she held until the finish, winning the race by 33 seconds corrected time. In the second class there were but two boats the Locia and Burgess entered. The Locia crossed first with a lead of over a minute over the Burgess, which made a bad start. The latter boat, however, forced herself ahead and won the race. The judges were: C. W. Page, Henry E. Nelson, Charles H. Hayden. The summary:

The regular meeting of the McKinley & Hobart club Saturday night at Re publicans headquarters was attended by about 75 of the members. President John Shaw presided and the meeting was an enthusiastic one. It was voted that a rally and flag raising adopted for the Quincy battalion.

The uniform selected was the best of the eight samples shown and is very neat. I consists of a full suit of white duck, with blue trimmings on coat and pants, brass buttons, epaulets and soldier cap. A New Storage Warehouse.

There has always been need of a good storage warehouse in Quincy, and we learn that Henry L. Kincaide & Co., have not overlooked this item in their new brick building. They have reserved a portion of the upper story for public storage. This affords a bright, clean, light, well ventilated storehouse, heated by steam and lighted by electricity, connected by a large freight elevator, also a passenger elevator for the convenience of those who may care to inspect their goods at any time. The number of applications for space they have already received from people who have learned of this new enterprise already assures them success.

Rally Day.

It was rally day on Sunday for the Bible school at Bethany Congregational church, and there were large numbers out at all services. Rev. Edwin N. Hardy preached in the morning from Jeremiah 7:18.

At the evening service John O. Hall, Jr., the superintendent of the Sunday school of the First church, spoke interestingly on the subject "Growing old in the Sunday School." It was very discouraging, he said, to teachers and superintendent to have young men drop out. If Sunday Schools were for the study of the Bible they were never too old. Teachers should become better fitted to teach, and become personally interested in their pupils, and parents should take more interest in the Sunday School.

Theophilus King made one of his stirring addresses on the relation of the Bible to business. He held that the Holy Book was not for the church alone, but for life. There was a time when might was right, but not so now. Then the world was held back; now the progress was very rapid. Songs of praise occupied half the service and there was a charming solo by Miss

Sunday Raids.

Sunday afternoon Chief of Police Hayden accompanied by Officers McKay, Ferguson, Bradley and Murray raided the premises of Andre De Mitteo on the line of the Quarry railroad and seized a half barrel of beer, 23 bottles of beer, and 150 empty bottles. They also visited the premises of Geactin De Bona on Cross street and seized a half barrel of ale, a gallon of beer, three, bottles of wine and a quantity of empty bottles.

When the officers entered De Mitteo's place they found a game of cards in progress and they placed Carlo Catto and Baptiste DeMitteo under arrest for playing cards on the Lord's day.

At the premises of De Bona, Gatano Mossoli made an assault on Inspector McKay, who placed him under arrest.

Fall Carpets.

Just a seasonable word or two, to-day.

When you're buying, think about quality as well as price. Remember that the words "Axminster," 'Wilton," "Brussels," etc., can be made to cover a multitude of sins.

Remember, too, that our stock is far larger than that of any other Boston house, and that as nobody can possibly buy to better advantage than we can, it is reasonable to suppose that our ability to name very low selling figures is also unsurpassed. We are combining high quality with moderation in price, this Fall, more effectively than ever before.

We ask for your patronage on this basis - the basis of "goods for the money."

Rev. Edwin Noah Hardy, the pastor of the church, outlined the course, its plan and its purpose. The lesson papers had not arrived, so that the real study could not be begun. The school was intended to deepen spiritual life, to unify church work, to influence the community. It was for

Dea. Cyrus T. Sherman will conduct the lesson next Monday evening, and Rev. John M. Dutton of Newtonville will

A New Bowling Allay. Gourd's new bowling alleys on Granite street opened Saturday night and have at once become popular. The place has been fitted especially for this purpose with three Narragansett alleys of the regulation length. The alleys are well lighted by day by numerous windows and at night by a number of the Welsbach gas lights which make the place as light as day.

When the alleys opened Saturday night the first ball was bowled by George O. Peverley, who scored 186 on the first string. From this on until nearly midnight the alleys were in constant use. Monday night the alleys were also in constant demand, the highest string rolled being 200 which was by George O. Peverley.

Women get plenty of sympathy after they are dead. Tom Hood made a very pathetic picture in his "Bridge of Sighs," but the babilities are that the woman need sympathy a great deal more of fore she died than she did afterwards. Thousands of wo men are enduring much worse things than death. The most distressing thing about it all is that it is needless.

Uterine troubles are considered well-nigh incurable. Women seem to think that they must go on bearing these things forever. To be sure, some of them make an effort to get well by going to their physicians, but thou-sands are deterred from this, both because they have seen that it was not likely to do much good, and because they knew that the much good, and because they knew that the first thing the physician would insist upon would be the examinations and local treatment so justly abhorrent to every modest woman. These things are generally as unnecessary as they are distasteful. Every woman can be made strong and healthy by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a most marvelous medicine for all forms of female weakness and disease. It is a wonderful purifier and cleanser. It It is a wonderful purifier and cleanser. He has been seen by several people within the past week. Saturday after soon the man appeared in the woods at the rear of the residence of Gideon L. Jcy of Rockland street, and commenced the delivery of a sermon, and also sang songs, his voice being an admirable one. At one point he kept repeating "I'm nearing my home." Finishing his preaching, he walked to a point directly oack of Mrs. Joy's house, where she was standing on the piazza, and pulled a revolver. Mrs. Joy ran into the house, bu two shots came flying after her. Mr. Webster, from his shop, saw the man, and also saw him fire the revolver. On Sunday, Lawrence Belcher of West Abington, who is a member of the Abington Congregational church choir, was on his way to the church about 5:30 o'clock. He had passed Reed's Corner, and was part way to Mrs. Jackson's house, when he heard a loud and clear voice in the woods. He stopped to lisen, and was immediately startled by the report of a revolver, and a bullet whizzed by his head down the street, passing within a few feet of Charles Lynde, who dropped to the ground. Officer Mace and a party of citizens got by way of the road all around the woods, both companies. nd six of the number went into the woods on the search. They had been searching about half an hour, and had ome to a field on the Shepherd farm, when they heard from the woods, about 00 feet distant, a deep, resonant voice of remarkable penetrating force, reciting properties were transferred to Presi quotations of Scripture, only to suddenly stop and commence saying, "Glory to and Hartford railroad,

The general belief is that the man has either escaped from some asylum or is crazed on the subject of religion.

BALL-FENTON.

A Pretty Home Wedding and Reception at Wollaston.

One of the prettiest home weddings which has been solemnized in Wollaston this season was that of Miss Margaret L. Fenton, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fenton, and Mr. John Bal!, Jr. of Wollaston at Beal House, the home of the Fenton's, on Tuesday evening.

There was a brilliant assemblage of rela The New School District at Norfolk tives and friends of the contracting parties. The marriage ceremony, which was witnessed only by the relatives and immediate friends of the family, was performed by the Rev. Preston Gurney, pastor of the First Baptist society.

The ceremony was performed in a bay window in the parlor, which was tastefully decorated with palms and other potted plants. A dove with outstretched wings was suspended over the bridal party.

The bride wore a very tasty gown of

Mr. James S. Harrison, a well-known and highly respected citizen of Cleve-land, O., was for years a sufferer from dyspepsia and general debility, and in his weakened condition, resulting from the above causes, he had the additional ill-luck to fall a victim to malaria from this complication of disorders. Mr. Harrison's condition was becoming very serious, when he commenced to take P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy. Its effects were marked and immediate. Read his letter to us. Its earnestness is apparent: GENTLEMEN: For the benefit of all suffering from dyspepsia and general debility I beg to submit my testimonial as to the efficacy of your P. P. P., Lipp-

My system was also full of Malaria and my condition was growing very serious; I had no appetite, was losing strength and was completely broken down in health, but now my health is completely restored, and I can eat like a field laborer, without the slightest fear of any serious results.

I take great pleasure in telling the world that P. P. P. did the grand work of restoring me to my accustomed Yours truly, JAMES S. HARRISON, Cleveland, O.
